Chinese Pledge Continued Aid For Viet Reds

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China marked its 17th anniversary today with a pledge to support the Vietnamese Communists to the end and a warning to the United States not to force China into war.

Defense Minister Lin Biao, speaking for party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and the Central Committee of the Communist party, told a cheering throng of millions:

"We are determined to support to the end the fight of the fraternal Vietnamese people in resisting America and saving their country, whatever sacrifice we have to make."

He also echoed an editorial in the Peking People's Daily which warned the United States that if it dared to force China into war "several millions of bravely fighting Liberation Army troops and several tens of millions of militia and Red Guards who are the fraternal rear of the Liberation Army" would be waiting.

The 59-year-old bespectacled defense minister, the No. 2 man in the Communist Chinese hierarchy, appeared with Mao and other leaders of the state and party before a crowd estimated at 2 1/2 to 3 million persons in Peking's Gate of Heavenly Peace Square.

Peking radio, monitored in Tokyo, announced earlier that the anniversary also marked the premiere of a color film of Red China's three nuclear blasts, which "smash the nuclear blackmail" of the Soviet Union and the United States.

The showing of the film and the mass rally in Peking highlighted the celebrations. For the first time since 1959 contingents of the army took part in the parade through the square.

The New China News Agency said about one million young Red Guards poured into the square, which was decorated with red banners, slogans and portraits of Mao. The broadcast described the rally as the "seeing scene of revolution."

Despite Red Guard requests that Mao address the crowd, the 72-year-old leader remained silent.

No chiefs of state or top foreign government leaders were on the rostrum and official greetings sent from other Communist countries were cool.

The Soviet Union pledged unity and friendship with the Chinese people but did not mention the Chinese leaders. Yugoslav President Tito, in a message described in Belgrade as the coldest and most impersonal he has ever sent to another head of state, congratulated Chinese President Liu Shao-chi and wished "welfare to the Chinese people."

Bombers Run Two Strikes

Little Ground Action Reported

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U. S. B-52 bombers pounded Communist troops in South Viet Nam with two raids today for a second consecutive day of double strikes.

One of the raids hit at North Vietnamese infiltration routes just south of the demilitarized zone where American Marines are fighting North Vietnamese forces in Operation Prairie.

This is the area hit by the two B-52 raids Friday. The latest bombing, at midnight Friday, struck 20 miles west of Dong Ha.

The other Stratofort raid came at noon today. The long-range bombers hit at Communist troop headquarters and supply areas 40 miles northwest of the coastal city of Qui Nhon.

The heavy strike was in support of U. S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division troops in Operation Thayer.

Ground action across South Viet Nam was reported small and scattered once again. The only sizeable contacts were

GE Claims IUE Pulled Into Strike

Eleven Employee Unions Bargain In Joint Front

NEW YORK (AP) — The top federal mediator renewed his efforts today to avert a nationwide strike threatened for mid-night Sunday against the General Electric Co.

William E. Skimkim, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said it was "a hopeful sign" that talks continue between GE and the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers. The union represents 79,400 workers.

The company's chief negotiator, Philip D. Moore, charged the union spokesmen "are being pulled into a strike."

Moore said the IUE negotiators are not free agents, but are under instructions from a multi-union strategy committee.

Contracts of the IUE and several other unions among the 100 that represent GE employees expire Sunday midnight.

IUE President Paul Jennings said Friday the union committee has full authority to reach an agreement with GE. The IUE, for the first time, is bargaining this year in a common front with 10 other AFL-CIO unions of GE employees. The company has opposed this bargaining procedure.

Moore's statement referred to this coalition, which represents a total of 125,000 workers. The company's total employees averaged 258,000 last year, and less than half were union members.

The unions have rejected a three-year contract proposal by GE providing for across-the-board wage increase of 4 per cent the first year and 3 per cent in each of the next two years.

Tests Show By Own Gun Officer Shot

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Howard Baxter, whose alleged wounding by an unknown assailant triggered a four-state manhunt, has resigned as Campbell County policeman after tests showed he was shot by his own service revolver, authorities said.

Baxter, 36, who was promoted to sergeant in 1963, resigned Friday "for reasons of health," said County Police Chief George Arnold.

Baxter claimed he was shot in the thigh and right leg Sunday in a surprise attack by a gunman while patrolling a camping area near here.

The assailant was sought in four states and a drawing of him, made by a Covington police artist from descriptions given by Baxter, was widely circulated.

Arnold said several leads were investigated but "none of them panned out."

Baxter was admitted to the hospital Sunday and released Tuesday.

He said he had also encountered the same man last Saturday morning while patrolling the same area. The man also fired then, but missed, Baxter said.

Baxter had been a policeman about five years.

Inez Threatens Shift Toward United States

Chief Explains Murder Theory

CINCINNATI (AP) — Lt. Herbert Vogel said investigators have some "promising leads" in the triple murder of the Jerome J. Brice family. The county homicide chief would not elaborate Friday.

Vogel did, however, offer some theorizing about just what did happen at their suburban Bridgetown home when Brice, 28, his wife, Linda Jane, 24, and their daughter, Debbie, 4, were slain.

Meanwhile, rewards offered for the arrest and conviction of the killer have reached $8,000. Hamilton County commissioners Friday offered $5,000 and Sheriff Dan Tehan said he also has had reward offers of $1,000 each from two private citizens. A local television station has also offered $1,000.

The Brices were found dead in their tri-level home Tuesday night and police believed they were killed sometime after 9 p.m. Sunday. Preliminary autopsy reports indicate they were stabbed a total of 23 times with a knife having a blade at least five inches long. Mrs. Brice was raped.

The weapon, police believe, was an oriental carving knife which is missing from the home. Vogel said he has uncovered nothing to indicate anything other than that Brice and his wife were a devoted and happily married couple.

Vogel speculated for the first time, in trying to reconstruct the murder, that Mrs. Brice and her husband were in the ground-level family room watching television. Brice's shoes were found there, and evidence indicates Mrs. Brice was folding towels.

Brice was in the habit of putting Debbie to bed, Vogel said he learned, and that it was probable he took her to her bedroom on the third level of the house, leaving Mrs. Brice alone.

As she was alone, someone entered through an unlocked door. Asked if he considered the someone an intruder or a family friend, Vogel said it could have been an "acquaintance."

Vandals Damage School Buses

SEDRO WOOLLEY, Wash. (AP) — Many local pupils did Friday what some of their parents did many years ago — walked to school.

Eleven buses were put out of operation by vandals who slashed fan belts, cut gasoline lines and removed distributor caps. Ten other buses were not damaged.

Most pupils made it to school, however.

Robert Warnecke, assistant superintendent, said vandalism has been a growing problem.

Killer Storm Gains Power

Castro's Cuba Lies in Range

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Inez, sucking new power into her system from the tepid waters of the Caribbean, lashed and tore at Cuba again today and once more Floridians followed the killer storm's erratic course with alarm.

Just when forecasters were considering the "all clear" sign for Florida, Inez crossed them up during the night with a westward turn that brought all of Communist Cuba in range of her howling winds and torrential rains.

Reams Puts Anti-Labor Tag on Foe

CLEVELAND (AP) — State Sen. Frazier Reams Jr. told a labor group here Friday night that another term for Gov. James Rhodes could mean "increasing control of the state by business and industry and the bond salesman."

Reams, the Democratic nominee for governor, told members of District 54, International Association of Machinists, that Rhodes and GOP-controlled Ohio legislatures "have consistently fought workmen's compensation and unemployment insurance."

Reams charged that Rhodes had spent $960,000 in Fortune Magazine advertising himself while, at the same time, battling labor legislation.

The gubernatorial candidate also claimed his opponent has bragged about new jobs and industry while "Cleveland has lost 3,400 jobs due to loss of industrial companies."

Woman Likes Male Dorm

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Amanda Harter Lott, 89, is sharing the Hotel Columbia with 450 male students from the University of South Carolina and enjoying it.

"There's no noise at all," Mrs. Lott said. "The only difference I noticed is that the elevators run more."

Her experiences in the two weeks since the university purchased the hotel and began using it as a dormitory were told in a copyrighted story by Ginny Carroll, managing editor of the Gamecock, the student newspaper.

"The boys all speak to me and smile," Mrs. Lott said. "Two of them even went to church with me last Sunday."

University officials asked other hotel guests to move but decided Mrs. Lott was a special case since she had invested much of her own money in a five-room suite on the 12th floor.

House Suspends Tax Exemption

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's bill to squeeze some of the business-spending steam out of the swollen U.S. economy has cleared the House and now faces efforts in the Senate to exempt various industries.

The measure would suspend for about 16 months the 7 per cent investment tax credit that has helped produce a boom in machinery and equipment buying, plus fast depreciation provisions that encourage construction of industrial, commercial and apartment buildings.

About the time the House was passing the bill 221 to 118 Friday, Johnson was appealing to 10 more governors to trim public spending in their states in conjunction with the administration's anti-inflation program.

All but one of the 10 governors indicated a willingness to try to do some economizing. Gov. Paul B. Johnson, Mississippi Democrat, remained silent when the governors met with newsmen after the third in a series of White House conferences Johnson is holding with state chief executives.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a Republican, said he told the President: "I know all of us want to cooperate with you."

But one governor who met with the President earlier in the week, Republican Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma, said Johnson is to blame for inflation. Bellmon told an Oklahoma City news conference the federal government should try to curb its spending before asking the states to.

But Bellmon apparently didn't get this point over to Johnson. "There's very little discussion when you meet with the President," he said. "Mostly, it's just listening."

The bill suspending the tax advantages was approved by the House on a vote that largely — but not entirely — followed party lines.

Democrats urged the action as part of Johnson's anti-inflation program which also includes an announced $3 billion cut in spending under budget figures and a hold up in certain forms of government agency borrowing.

Republicans expressed skepticism about the promised spending cuts and said Johnson should have acted earlier and more drastically to cut back or postpone Great Society programs and balance the budget.

The House adopted one amendment. It would allow equipment for abatement of air and water pollution to continue to enjoy the 7 per cent tax credit.

Farm Chiefs Note Demand For Grain

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There is increasing demand overseas for Ohio grain, created by European prosperity, two officials of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation report.

Frank Sollars, Washington Court House, president of the federation, and Thomas J. Gorman, of Trenton, Butler County, returned recently from Europe where they headed a trade mission of the Farm Bureau Trade Development Corp. in Rotterdam, Holland, and the meeting of the International Cooperative Alliance in Vienna, Austria.

Accompanying them were Walter See, manager of the grain division, Landmark Farm Bureau Cooperative Association, and Nelson Cotton, general manager of Ohio Farmers, Inc., Fostoria, and president of Mid-States Terminal, Inc., Toledo.

"Everywhere we went we found a market for soft red winter wheat, soybeans, corn, dehydrated alfalfa, processed tomatoes and other fruits and vegetables," the Ohio farm leaders reported.

"Recent developments in the Common Market have stabilized the agricultural situation in Europe. While tariff barriers prevent the import of some American products, there is a strong demand for feed grains, since almost no corn or soybeans are raised in northern Europe."

Killer Storm Gains Power

Castro's Cuba Lies in Range

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Inez, sucking new power into her system from the tepid waters of the Caribbean, lashed and tore at Cuba again today and once more Floridians followed the killer storm's erratic course with alarm.

Just when forecasters were considering the "all clear" sign for Florida, Inez crossed them up during the night with a westward turn that brought all of Communist Cuba in range of her howling winds and torrential rains.

And, as Prime Minister Fidel Castro glumly watched an economic disaster develop in his already tottering nation, Inez became again a definite menace to the U.S. mainland.

With more than 100 dead in her wake and possibly many more, Inez screamed out of the southeast into Cuba's easternmost Oriente Province Friday, battering that agriculturally rich area with wind gusts up to 138 miles an hour.

The Weather Bureau thought then she would veer northward, some off the island into the Atlantic, then hammer the central Bahamas on a track that would keep her clear of Florida.

But Inez never got to Cuba's north coast. Instead, she thrashed to west-northwest along the Caribbean and howled along the south edge of the island on a snake-like course that is expected to bring her close to Havana late today.

The 8 a.m. Weather Bureau bulletin estimated the location of the eye 200 miles southeast of Havana and 350 miles south of Miami. Inez was howling toward the west-northwest at 120 miles an hour.

If continued, this course would bring the storm back ashore in western Cuba late today or tonight.

Small craft owners in the lower Florida Keys were warned to remain in port.

"If she regains her strength and moves back over Cuba," said forecaster Paul Moore, "she could reach the Florida Straits by tonight."

The straits, separating Cuba from Florida, is the unpredictable body of water used as an escape route by refugees fleeing (Continued on Page 10)

LBJ Halts TWU Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has averted for at least 60 days a strike by 12,000 members of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union against Pan American World Airways.

Johnson signed an executive order Friday creating a three-member board to investigate the dispute and report its findings within 30 days, but did not immediately name the members.

The union will be barred from striking for another 30-day period after Johnson receives the report while negotiators continue to seek a settlement.

The strike was threatened for 12:01 a. m. Sunday. A Pan Am official in New York said the dispute involved wages, premium pay and health and welfare benefits.

It was the third time this year Johnson has set up an emergency board to study airline disputes.

The AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists rejected one board's recommendations and union members walked off their jobs on five major airlines in July. The strike lasted six weeks.

Johnson set up the next panel to investigate a contract dispute between American Airlines and the Transport Workers Union. Negotiators subsequently reached agreement on a new contract, which will be voted on by union members Monday.

Bombers Run Two Strikes

Little Ground Action Reported

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. B-52 bombers pounded Communist troops in South Viet Nam with two raids today for a second consecutive day of double strikes.

One of the raids hit at North Vietnamese infiltration routes just south of the demilitarized zone where American Marines are fighting North Vietnamese forces in Operation Prairie.

The heavy strike was in support of U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airborne, Division troops in Operation Thayer.

Home Agent Tips

By Marjorie Kaiser
Home Economics Agent

Getting ready to do your weekly cleaning or fall house-cleaning? Here are some tips on dusting which should be helpful:

Use a soft cloth, start at the top of each piece and work down toward the bottom; dust the under sides of tables, chairs and chair seats; dust the edges of drawers and the edges of doors on cabinets; shake the dust cloth often so the loose dust won't settle down again or keep changing to clean cloths; Learn to work with one cloth in your right hand and one cloth in your left hand and use them both at the same time; use a soft shaving or baby's hair brush to dust carved designs; use the same brush to dust cane or mesh or wicker furniture or use a vacuum cleaner brush.

Use a vacuum cleaner brush or whisk broom to dust lamp shades, upholstery, curtains, draperies, window shades and venetian blinds; Dust books one at a time; wring a cloth out of sudsy water and use it to wipe window sills where a lot of dirt settles; wring a cloth out of sudsy water and use it to wipe off the TV screen and then wipe and polish it with a clean dry cloth.

Special Tips: cut an old whisk broom to make a sharp point. Use this to dust out the seams and corners of furniture; add two teaspoons of turpentine to a jar of hot sudsy water. Put in a few dustcloths and screw the cover on tight. Let the cloths soak over night. Then wring out the cloths and hang them up to dry. These cloths will pick up every bit of dust and they will leave a nice shine on the furniture.

Farm Science Review Draws Big Crowd Despite Weather

The Ohio State Farm Science Review, played by wet grounds for the second straight year, drew an estimated 58,000 persons in Columbus last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

With favorable weather, Review officials had hoped for an attendance of between 75,000 and 100,000. But even with the soggy conditions, this year's crowd topped that of last year when wet grounds closed the Review after two days and an attendance of about 50,000.

The 1966 event opened a day late after nearly three inches of rain had fallen on the 450-acre site adjacent to Don Scott airport in Northwest Franklin County. Showers continued Thursday, turning roadways through the 30-acre central exhibit area into ribbons of mud. But the first-day crowd of 25,000 persons, garbed in raincoats, rubber boots, plastic bags, and other assorted protective covering, didn't seem to mind.

"This looks just like my barnyard in late February," commented one farmer.

Some Weeds Grow Even In Winter

Those who think all weeds are dying now and the lawn is safe until spring are forgetting the perennial weed. Perennials can grow any time of the year, whether it's the usual growing season or coldest winter, says Robert W. Miller, Ohio State University agronomist.

Dandelions, mouse-ear chickweed, narrow and broadleaf plantain and ground ivy are all perennials. Since lawns have little resistance during the fall and winter when they are dormant, these pesky weeds could take over your lawn while you're resting.

If you don't want to be faced with a serious weed situation in the spring, better take control measures now while the weeds are young and actively growing, Miller says. Application now will allow the grass to fill in the bare spots before crabgrass has a chance to germinate in the spring, Miller says.

Spray lawns once with a broadleaf weed killer containing Silvex. Complete control is more likely when temperatures are fairly warm, about 70 degrees or above, for a week afterward. This means you should probably spray before the middle of October.

If after three weeks, the weeds are still growing, another application may be needed. Do not apply to newly seeded lawns or young grass that hasn't been mowed at least twice.

When spraying small areas, use a sprinkling can as an applicator so that risk of spray drift to desirable plants will be small. A spreader-sticker will help your spray do a better job.

Get one at a garden supply store or use one-half teaspoon liquid dishwashing detergent per gallon of water.

dried considerably on Friday and still more on Saturday, field activity was restricted to silage harvesting and plowing. The big machines scheduled to harvest corn and soybeans could not operate because of the soft, muddy fields. Review officials estimated the crowd on Friday at 25,000 and on Saturday at 8,000.

Despite the restrictions in activity on the grounds, the Review won high praise from farmers who knew from experience what it's like to try to harvest corn or soybeans in the mud.

"This machinery display is one of the best I've seen in some time," said Robert Perkins of Route 3, Newark.

Dale Beard, Route 2, Sycamore, attending his first Review, said, "I enjoyed the chance to meet and talk with specialists of the Extension Service and researchers of the Ohio Agricultural Research Center. The Review offered me an easy way to get some of my questions answered."

C. W. Brokate, Route 1, Port Clinton, a retired farmer who came to the Review by plane, said, "From the air it's a beautiful sight. It makes you want to come down and see it."

While the central exhibit area and outlying demonstration fields were muddy conditions were near normal at the south edge of the grounds where the livestock, horticultural, and agronomy areas were located, and at the conservation and recreation site to the northeast. Workers in those areas reported large crowds each day.

DALE FRIDAY, Review manager, said his crews now will begin the job of getting the grounds back in condition for next year's presentation, scheduled tentatively for September 20-22, 1967. Ruts will be filled, roadways and some parking areas plowed or disked yet this fall, then seeded back to fescue next March. Soybean and corn crops will be harvested this fall as weather conditions permit.

This was the fourth year for the Review, an event designed to show farm science and technology in action. It is sponsored by The Ohio State University, the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service, the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, and the Ohio Expositions Commission.

Area Herd Is High in Production

By PAUL ODIACHI
Extension Trainee

The August DHIA production testing results showed Katherine Cockran's Holstein herd high in production.

Mrs. Cockran's herd of 66 cows produced 1270 pounds of milk and 48.2 pounds of butterfat for the 31 day month. She lives at Route 3, Mt. Sterling.

Pearl Zimmer who owns a 39-cow Holstein herd was next with a production of 1140 pounds of milk and 45.9 pounds of butterfat. The 41-cow herd of Reuben Jones was third with 1215 pounds of milk and 44.9 pounds of butterfat.

The three high individual cows for the month belonged to Reuben Jones, Wayne Hines and David Berry.

Mr. Jones' Joy cow produced 3110 pounds of milk and 140 pounds of butterfat. Mrs. Wayne Hines' Hazel cow produced 2400 pounds of milk and 110 pounds of butterfat, while Mr. David Berry's No. 95 cow produced 3180 pounds of milk and 99 pounds of butterfat.

The five high cows with 305 day lactation completed during August were: Jack Rogers' No. 62 produced 15,240 pounds of milk and 645 pounds of butterfat, Lawrence Carter's Snow produced 15,540 pounds of milk and 627 pounds of butterfat. Donald Schleich's Granny produced 17,060 pounds of milk and 611 pounds of butterfat. Green Meadow's No. 87 cow produced 14,670 pounds of milk and 586 pounds of butterfat. Reuben Jones' Joy produced 13,220 pounds of milk and 585 pounds of butterfat.

ager, coal and quartzite mining and metals division, Union Carbide Corp.; and C. L. Bullock, agricultural sales supervisor, Ohio Power Company.

The Eastern Ohio Center consists of two units, a 728-acre site located 1½ miles northeast of Belle Valley and 1325 acres of stripmined land located 7 miles southeast of Caldwell. The latter unit consists of 1,000 acres given to the Research Center by Union Carbide Corp. and 325 acres given by Baker and Noon Coal Co.

The New Resource Development Center will seek answers to technical and economic problems of farmers which will aid the development of natural resources of the area. Major effort will be devoted to methods of generating new wealth and thus improving and expanding the economy of Eastern Ohio.

Among the goals will be determination of the best methods for reclaiming and increasing the productivity of stripmined land. Stripmined areas will be reforested with improved, fast-growing species and new and improved techniques of forest management will be studied. The physical and chemical properties of these areas will be studied to determine their possible use for forage establishment and management.

Another goal will be to determine "cost-return" data which will serve as a guide in determining the necessary size of farm unit for economic livestock production. Herefords, Angus and Charolais, as well as crossbred cattle, will be used to study problems associated with forage and feeder calf production. Other studies will deal with beef cattle breeding and management.

Reagan Wages Strong Campaign To Unseat California's Brown

EDITOR'S NOTE—One of the country's most exciting and important elections is shaping up in California. Here, a veteran political hand sizes up Republican Ronald Reagan as a campaigner. Next, Relman Morin zeroes in on the man in the other corner—Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown.

By RELMAN MORIN
AP Special Correspondent

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Politically, as in his celluloid days, Ronald Reagan is demonstrating that he is "box office."

The erstwhile movie actor, now Republican candidate for governor of California, has been drawing crowds, stirring applause and laughter in speeches, fielding tough questions about government, and generally waging a strong campaign.

This is his first try for elective office, although he has been around the fringes of politics for years, and he turns out to be something of a phenomenon.

Reagan won the nomination last June in a contest with former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher, carrying 53 of the state's 58 counties and taking a towering 64 per cent of the GOP vote.

Now, campaigning up and down the 750-mile length of California, Reagan is drawing well. It may be largely curiosity to see him in person that brings out the people. His face was familiar, via movies and television, for years before he cast himself into his present role.

"Ronnie has been in millions of living rooms as a nice guy for a long time," said a Reagan lieutenant, "and that's one of the big things he has going for him."

There are others. He makes a

Corn Harvest Loss Heavy

By PAUL ODIACHI
Extension Trainee

An Ohio study in 1965, showed that corn harvesting machine losses averaged 4.3 bushels per acre for corn pickers and 6.5 bushels per acre for corn combines.

For an average Pickaway County corn farm, this is a great loss. The spread in losses between the minimum and maximum, indicates many farmers may be leaving a greater portion of the profit for their corn crop in the field.

Machine losses may include: snapping roll loss — consisting of kernels of grain and or parts of ears that pass through the snapping rolls and fall to the ground beneath the machine as the ear is snapped from the machine; machine ear loss — consisting of the ears of corn that were left on the stalks or ground after the machine has passed over the plot; combine cylinder and separation loss, resulting from kernels of grain that are still attached to the cob after having passed through the machine. Separation loss is influenced by forward speed, rack speed, sieve opening; wind adjustment and fodder moisture.

Machine losses may be reduced by checking and replacing missing chains and missing air screen around the fan chamber. Normal engine speed, properly adjusted stripper plates, gathering chains and snapping rolls will go a long way to reduce these losses.

smooth speech, seldom using a text or pausing to reach for a word. He says he writes all his speeches himself. They are punchy, articulate, a blend of humor, serious discussion of issues, and satirical pot shots aimed at his Democratic opponent, Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Reagan rattles off statistics to support his arguments on state questions. Discussing such problems informally, he tends to be more incisive than in speeches or news conferences. Neutral observers often remark, "He has been doing his homework."

In the lush, green and gold Napa Valley—the wine country—Reagan stirred clapping and laughter when he ridiculed the special tax on sparkling wines by calling it "the bubble tax."

Reagan, a zealous apostle of private enterprise, says Los Angeles businessmen have provided 4,000 jobs in Watts since the Negro riots in that section of the city last year. With a sense of timing, he paused and added "and that's almost as many as there are poverty workers there."

By contrast, he was all earnestness at a veterans' home north of San Francisco. No jokes. No barbs at Brown. Reagan's looks, the trim figure, wavy hair and squinted smile, and his personality, sometimes boyish, more often urbane, bring a wrapt, dreamy expression to women's faces.

At 55, he looks very much as he did in his hit films. He has a pretty wife, actress Nancy Davis, and two children, Pattie, 13 and Ronnie, 7. These are all political assets.

"A lot of people figured he would be pretty and pretty dumb," a politician said. "They've been surprised."

Brown says this is the hardest of his three gubernatorial races. He won office in 1958, defeating former U.S. Sen. William F. Knowland and was re-elected in 1962, defeating former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"Reagan will be tougher than either of them," Brown said. "But we've turned the corner now and we're on the way."

A recent poll, regarded by analysts as reliable, gave Reagan an edge at this stage but showed Brown gaining. The State Poll gave Reagan a rating of 45 per cent, Brown 41, and 14 listed as "don't know." Its comparable figures in June were Reagan 48 per cent, Brown 37 and "don't know" 15.

Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty, says, "If Reagan can project the image of being a moderate, I think he can win. Vice versa, if they pin the extreme right-wing label on him, people will be leery, leery of extremism."

This touches on Reagan's recent political history.

He worked hard, speaking and fund-raising, for Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential candidate in 1964. Reagan delivered an election-eve speech of such power that Californians are still talking about it today—even the Democrats.

Like an echo of that campaign, Reagan said recently in a talk to a religious group in Fresno, "We want a policy based on what we know in our hearts is right." A Goldwater slogan of 1964 was, "In your heart you know he's right."

Reagan started as "a bleeding-heart liberal, a New Deal Democrat" — to use his own words. Today, he accepts the label, "conservative."

The wide swing in philosophy began, he says, during World War II when he was adjutant in an Air Force base. "I began having doubts then that government can operate as efficiently as a private organization," he said.

His doubts deepened, he said, in England after the war. He went there to make a movie. By that time, the Laborites had ousted Winston Churchill and started nationalizing some industries. "I didn't like the look of what was going on there," he said.

Reagan says he was one of the first to urge Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to run for president in 1948. To be sure, Eisenhower's party affiliations were unclear at the time. But his statements on national problems stamped him as a middle-of-the-roader.

When Eisenhower refused to run, Reagan said he campaigned for President Harry S. Truman. He says he voted for Eisenhower in 1952.

The final step in Reagan's transformation — in philosophy if not in party affiliation — came with the discovery of Communist infiltration of the motion picture industry.

Reagan, then president of the Screen Actors Guild, plunged into that fight. It brought him an insult sometimes seen in movies but seldom in real life. He said, "A fellow I knew — just an acquaintance — walked up to me on the street one day and spit in my face."

From time to time as he campaigns now, people ask Reagan why he refuses to disavow the John Birch Society. He replies, "I'm not a member of the Birch Society. I'm not planning to join. I don't agree with many of the things they say. But I'm not going to issue a blanket repudiation of a whole group of people."

At this stage of the campaign, political observers here consider the gubernatorial race neck-and-neck and, baring some wide-sweep, technicolor blunder by either candidate, they think it will remain that way, right down to the wire in November.

Keep a good record of gasoline used for agricultural purposes from July 1, 1966 through Dec. 31, 1966. Claims for the 4-cent per gallon Federal tax refund will be used as a credit against income tax liability of form 1040 for calendar 1966. No more special claims will be made. Cash refunds will be made only when a gasoline tax refund claim is larger than the tax liability of form 1040.

When you owe $100 of Social Security tax on wages of agricultural workers, it is due. At the present rate of 8.4 per cent you owe $100.89 when total "eligible" wages reaches $1,200 since Jan. 1.

Eligible wages are those paid to all individuals to whom you have paid as much as $150 this year. Do not count wages of individuals to whom you have paid less than $150, but count all the wages when the total equals or exceeds $150 this year. You may pay the tax at any time.

You will receive a "depository receipt" which you will attach to your report of workers and wages paid for 1966 in January of 1967 on Forms 1096 and 1099. This is entirely separate from your income tax return.

The penalties for failure to comply with this regulation are stiff enough to encourage compliance.

Keep a good record of all government payments you receive on agricultural practices or programs. The Internal Revenue Service is making plans to secure detailed information from the USDA on all such payments made and the computer will be looking for them to be reported on your income tax returns.

The amount and kind of each payment may have to be identified on your schedule of farm income and expenses. Final payments on wheat, feed grain and all ASCS payments earned or "available" by Dec. 31 must be reported on 1966 tax returns.

None can be held over into 1967 merely by asking that the check be held or by failure to pick it up if you have completed compliance and it is "available" to you.

Pickaway County farmers should mark Dec. 8 and 15 on their calendars. A Farm Management School will be held in the county on these dates.

Friends Say HST Suffers Dizzy Spells

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman has been confined to his home since his return from a hospital where he was taken July 30 suffering from severe colitis.

Truman's long-time secretary, Rose Conway, said the 82-year-old former president promises to return to his office "any day now."

But friends say Truman suffers dizzy spells, especially when he attempts to walk. He has been ordered by his doctor to move about as little as possible, they say.

The intestinal disturbance two months ago kept Truman in Research Hospital, Kansas City, for six days.

The Truman Library, where the former president has a large office, is about a half mile from his home. In recent years Truman has arrived there at 7:30 a.m. — before the office help — and returned home for the day by 11 a.m.

Two years ago he fell against the bathtub in his home and was in the hospital for nine days with two rib fractures and cuts and bruises about the face. The year before he had a hernia operation and close friends say he never fully recovered his strength from that.

New Draft Exemption Tests Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fall series of Selective Service college qualification tests will be given at more than 500 test centers on Nov. 18 and 19, it was announced Friday.

LT. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, said posters announcing the tests are now on display in colleges, universities, post offices and public buildings.

Local draft boards throughout the 50 states, the Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands, Guam, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia have application cards and information bulletins for registrants.

Any registrant may apply who is enrolled in college or is a high school senior or graduate and has not previously taken the test. A registrant takes the test only once. Selective Service said the test is intended to predict a student's ability to do college work.

All applications must be mailed to Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J., in a preaddressed envelope obtainable from any draft board.

They must be postmarked no later than Oct. 21. Applications postmarked after that date will not be processed.

Scores will be forwarded by Educational Testing Service directly to the registrant's local board. Local boards may consider the result along with other data in the registrant's file in determining eligibility for occupational deferment as a student.

City Wastes Urban Funds

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Little Hoover Commission reportedly has found that delays and mismanagement in Cleveland urban renewal projects have cost the city more than $2,047,000.

The Plain Dealer said Friday the commission's confidential report was distributed to a handful of key city officials two days ago.

Mayor Ralph S. Locher and Carter Kissell, chairman of the commission, issued a joint statement Thursday night saying only that urban renewal activities in Cleveland are being studied.

The Plain Dealer said it learned that a commission analyst found all six urban renewal projects behind schedule by one to four years.

This was said to have cost the city $1,400,000 in interest on urban renewal bonds.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stokely Carmichael, though never clear about it, shouts "black power" in a country where Negroes are only about 10 per cent of a population now numbering around 200 million.

So far this year at least 39 cities have been hit by racial violence. What good does this do Negroes? In some cases the riots may induce federal, state or city governments to do more about Negro housing and employment.

But at the same time it antagonizes a lot of whites, many of whom have been sympathetic to the problems of Negroes. Whatever kind of power Carmichael has in mind, it's still a dream. The whites have the real power.

And this year, amid growing white antagonism, the civil rights cause has been hurt. Moderate-minded Negro leaders, like Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., take a dim view of Negro violence.

King said this month the civil rights movement has made too much progress through nonviolence to resort to violence now.

Yet, this week on a CBS television program, with Mike Wallace interviewing a number of Negro leaders, one of them, Daniel Watts, editor of Harlem's "Liberator" paper, spoke contemptuously of moderate Negro leaders.

"House niggers," he called them.

He said he meant Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; and Whitney M. Young, executive director of the National Urban League.

Watts talked of forcing the white community to negotiate with Negroes. He didn't explain that. But how 10 per cent of the population can force the other 90 per cent to do anything it doesn't want to do was also left unclear.

Carmichael, head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, is always vague on what he means by "black power," what it would consist of and how it could be obtained.

He was present Sept. 6 when Negroes rioted in Atlanta and dumped the mayor off an automobile. Later he was charged with inciting a riot.

Public opinion polls show white reaction against Negro violence is growing, that many whites think the civil rights movement is going too fast, and that many white liberals, previously sympathetic, are turning cool.

There can be little doubt the white reaction this month influenced senators who killed this year's civil rights bill and this week turned the clock back a bit on civil rights by approving a measure allowing doctors to keep white medicare patients separate from Negroes when they think it helpful.

And in the past few weeks

politicians must have been stunned by what happened in Maryland and Georgia where voters in the Democratic primaries picked their candidates for governor.

In Georgia it was a one-time restaurant owner and segregationist without political experience, Lester G. Maddox, who closed his restaurant rather than serve Negroes. And in Maryland it was George P. Mahoney who has had wretched political luck but this year had as his main theme opposition to open housing.

There is grim irony in the contempt shown by extremists like Watts for Negro leaders like Wilkins, King and Young. It was particularly ironic in the case of Wilkins whose NAACP has been the greatest force in obtaining civil rights for Negroes.

For more than a quarter of a century the NAACP has been intensively fighting the Negroes' cause, and with steady success, led by Walter White, Wilkins' predecessor, and then Wilkins, Thurgood Marshall, the NAACP's attorney but now U.S. solicitor general, and Clarence Mitchell, the NAACP's Washington representative.

It was the moderate Negroes like Wilkins, Marshall and Mitchell who made it possible for the civil rights movement to be born.

Reagan Wages Strong Campaign To Unseat California's Brown

EDITOR'S NOTE—One of the country's most exciting and important elections is shaping up in California. Here, a veteran political hand sizes up Republican Ronald Reagan as a campaigner. Next, Relman Morin zeroes in on the man in the other corner—Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown.

By RELMAN MORIN
AP Special Correspondent

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Politically, as in his celluloid days, Ronald Reagan is demonstrating that he is "box office."

The erstwhile movie actor, now Republican candidate for governor of California, has been drawing crowds, stirring applause and laughter in speeches, fielding tough questions about government, and generally waging a strong campaign.

This is his first try for elective office, although he has been around the fringes of politics for years, and he turns out to be something of a phenomenon.

Reagan won the nomination last June in a contest with former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher, carrying 53 of the state's 58 counties and taking a towering 64 per cent of the GOP vote.

Now, campaigning up and down the 750-mile length of California, Reagan is drawing well. It may be largely curiosity to see him in person that brings out the people. His face was familiar, via movies and television, for years before he cast himself into his present role.

"Ronnie has been in millions of living rooms as a nice guy for a long time," said a Reagan lieutenant, "and that's one of the big things he has going for him."

There are others. He makes a smooth speech, seldom using a text or pausing to reach for a word. He says he writes all his speeches himself. They are punchy, articulate, a blend of humor, serious discussion of issues, and satirical pot shots aimed at his Democratic opponent, Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Reagan rattles off statistics to support his arguments on state questions. Discussing such problems informally, he tends to be more incisive than in speeches or news conferences. Neutral observers often remark, "He has been doing his homework."

In the lush, green and gold Napa Valley—the wine country—Reagan stirred clapping and laughter when he ridiculed the special tax on sparkling wines by calling it "the bubble tax."

Reagan, a zealous apostle of private enterprise, says Los Angeles businessmen have provided 4,000 jobs in Watts since the Negro riots in that section of the city last year. With a sense of timing, he paused and added "and that's almost as many as there are poverty workers there."

By contrast, he was all earnestness at a veterans' home north of San Francisco. No

Reagan's looks, the trim figure, wavy hair and squinted smile, and his personality, sometimes boyish, more often urbane, bring a wrapt, dreamy expression to women's faces.

At 55, he looks very much as he did in his hit films. He has a pretty wife, actress Nancy Davis, and two children, Pattie, 13 and Ronnie, 7. These are all political assets.

"A lot of people figured he would be pretty and pretty dumb," a politician said. "They've been surprised."

Brown says this is the hardest of his three gubernatorial races. He won office in 1958, defeating former U.S. Sen. William F. Knowland and was re-elected in 1962, defeating former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"Reagan will be tougher than either of them," Brown said. "But we've turned the corner now and we're on the way."

A recent poll, regarded by analysts as reliable, gave Reagan an edge at this stage but showed Brown gaining. The State Poll gave Reagan a rating of 45 per cent, Brown 41, and 14 listed as "don't know." Its comparable figures in June were Reagan 48 per cent, Brown 37 and "don't know" 15.

Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty, says, "If Reagan can project the image of being a moderate, I think he can win. Vice versa, if they pin the extreme right-wing label on him, people will be leery, leery of extremism."

This touches on Reagan's recent political history.

He worked hard, speaking and fund-raising, for Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential candidate in 1964. Reagan delivered an election-eve speech of such power that Californians are still talking about it today—even the Democrats.

Like an echo of that campaign, Reagan said recently in a talk to a religious group in Fresno, "We want a policy based on what we know in our hearts is right." A Goldwater slogan of 1964 was, "In your heart you know he's right."

Reagan started as "a bleeding-heart liberal, a New Deal Democrat" — to use his own words. Today, he accepts the label, "conservative."

The wide swing in philosophy began, he says, during World War II when he was adjutant in an Air Force base. "I began having doubts then that government can operate as efficiently as a private organization," he said.

His doubts deepened, he said, in England after the war. He went there to make a movie. By that time, the Laborites had ousted Winston Churchill and started nationalizing some industries. "I didn't like the look of what was going on there," he said.

When Eisenhower refused to run, Reagan said he campaigned for President Harry S. Truman. He says he voted for Eisenhower in 1952.

The final step in Reagan's transformation — in philosophy if not in party affiliation — came with the discovery of Communist infiltration of the motion picture industry.

Reagan, then president of the Screen Actors Guild, plunged into that fight. It brought him an insult sometimes seen in movies but seldom in real life. He said, "A fellow I knew — just an acquaintance — walked up to me on the street one day and spit in my face."

From time to time as he campaigns now, people ask Reagan why he refuses to disavow the John Birch Society. He replies, "I'm not a member of the Birch Society. I'm not planning to join. I don't agree with many of the things they say. But I'm not going to issue a blanket repudiation of a whole group of people."

At this stage of the campaign, political observers here consider the gubernatorial race neck-and-neck and, baring some wide-sweeping, technicolor blunder by either candidate, they think it will remain that way, right down to the wire in November.

Corn Harvest Loss Heavy

By PAUL ODIACHI
Extension Trainee

An Ohio study in 1965, showed that corn harvesting machine losses averaged 4.3 bushels per acre for corn pickers and 6.5 bushels per acre for corn combines.

For an average Pickaway County corn farm, this is a great loss. The spread in losses between the minimum and maximum, indicates many farmers may be leaving a greater portion of the profit for their corn crop in the field.

Machine losses may include: snapping roll loss — consisting of kernels of grain and or parts of ears that pass through the snapping rolls and fall to the ground beneath the machine as the ear is snapped from the machine; machine ear loss — consisting of the ears of corn that were left on the stalks or ground after the machine has passed over the plot; combine cylinder and separation loss, resulting from kernels of grain that are still attached to the cob after having passed through the machine. Separation loss is influenced by forward speed, rack speed, sieve opening; wind adjustment and fodder moisture.

Machine losses may be reduced by checking and replacing missing chains and missing air screen around the fan chamber. Normal engine speed, properly adjusted stripper plates, gathering chains and snapping rolls will go a long way to reduce the losses.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stokely Carmichael, though never clear about it, shouts "black power" in a country where Negroes are only about 10 per cent of a population now numbering around 200 million.

So far this year at least 39 cities have been hit by racial violence. What good does this do Negroes? In some cases the riots may induce federal, state or city governments to do more about Negro housing and employment.

But at the same time it antagonizes a lot of whites, many of whom have been sympathetic to the problems of Negroes. Whatever kind of power Carmichael has in mind, it's still a dream. The whites have the real power.

And this year, amid growing white antagonism, the civil rights cause has been hurt. Moderate-minded Negro leaders, like Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., take a dim view of Negro violence.

King said this month the civil rights movement has made too much progress through nonviolence to resort to violence now.

Yet, this week on a CBS television program, with Mike Wallace interviewing a number of Negro leaders, one of them, Daniel Watts, editor of Harlem's "Liberator" paper, spoke contemptuously of moderate Negro leaders.

"House niggers," he called them. He said he meant Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; and Whitney M. Young, executive director of the National Urban League.

Watts talked of forcing the white community to negotiate with Negroes. He didn't explain that. But how 10 per cent of the population can force the other 90 per cent to do anything it doesn't want to do was also left unclear.

Carmichael, head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, is always vague on what he means by "black power," what it would consist of and how it could be obtained.

He was present Sept. 6 when Negroes rioted in Atlanta and dumped the mayor off an automobile. Later he was charged with inciting a riot.

Public opinion polls show white reaction against Negro violence is growing, that many whites think the civil rights movement is going too fast, and that many white liberals, previously sympathetic, are turning cool.

There can be little doubt the white reaction this month influenced senators who killed this year's civil rights bill and this week turned the clock back a bit on civil rights by approving a measure allowing doctors to keep white medicare patients separate from Negroes when they think it helpful.

And in the past few weeks

politicians must have been stunned by what happened in Maryland and Georgia where voters in the Democratic primaries picked their candidates for governor.

In Georgia it was a one-time restaurant owner and segregationist without political experience, Lester G. Maddox, who closed his restaurant rather than serve Negroes. And in Maryland it was George P. Mahoney who has had wretched political luck but this year had as his main theme opposition to open housing.

There is grim irony in the contempt shown by extremists like Watts for Negro leaders like Wilkins, King and Young. It was particularly ironic in the case of Wilkins whose NAACP has been the greatest force in obtaining civil rights for Negroes.

For more than a quarter of a century the NAACP has been intensively fighting the Negroes' cause, and with steady success, led by Walter White, Wilkins' predecessor, and then Wilkins, Thurgood Marshall, the NAACP's attorney but now U.S. solicitor general, and Clarence Mitchell, the NAACP's Washington representative.

It was the moderate Negroes like Wilkins, Marshall and Mitchell who made it possible for the civil rights movement to be born.

Family Going This Time

Robert Manry, who crossed the Atlantic alone in his 13½-foot Tinkerbelle a year ago, is setting sail again.

This time he plans a 5,000-mile, one-year cruise . . . considerably longer, and more leisurely, than his 3,200-mile, 78-day journey from Falmouth, Mass., to Falmouth, England.

He's going in a Tinkerbelle II that is twice as long as the first one, and not venturing beyond the inland and coastal waters of the eastern United States. For this trip his wife, Virginia, and teenage children, Robin and Douglas, are going along.

One summer of staying home in Willowick, O., while dad had all the adventure was apparently enough for them.

Cars and Cities

The chairman of Mayor Lindsay's Transportation Council in New York City says "responsible people" suggest closing Manhattan's bridges and tunnels to commuter cars from 7:30 to 10 a. m. to force the use of public transportation instead of private automobiles.

This recalls the recommendation of the Department of Commerce a few years ago, that municipalities levy tolls on incoming motor-vehicle traffic. The toll revenues, along with higher parking fees, were to be used to subsidize rapid-transit facilities.

Nothing came of it and nothing is going to come of the idea for morning rush-hour ban on Manhattan's approaches. There are legal as well as practical obstacles.

The automobile has done much for, as well as to, cities. Contrived restrictions on its access to central business districts could be self-defeating. Uncomfortable congestion could be replaced by unprofitable stagnation.

Many drive to work because they have no alternative. And it must be assumed that the others, those who refuse to use available trains and buses, must also have good reasons, else why would they undergo the daily ordeal of driving?

Undoubtedly, an excess of automobiles on their streets is part of what's wrong with cities, but exclusion is not a feasible solution.

Spicy Fable Earns $$$

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Susann, who admits she is a poor speller, also made a slight error in arithmetic early this year.

She estimated then that her first novel, "Valley of the Dolls," might earn as much as a million dollars.

"Now I figure it will gross at least $2 million, and it should go much higher than that," said the pretty, dark-haired actress turned author.

Jackie's spicy fable of the price paid for success by four lovely ladies in the entertainment jungles of television, Broadway and Hollywood has been a runaway literary sensation as well as a personal bonanza.

Printing orders for the hardcover edition of the novel have gone past the 350,000 mark. The book has been sold to the movies, 15 foreign editions have been arranged, and 1½ million paperback copies will be distributed in 1968.

But Jackie is proudest of the fact that her novel has been No. 1 for 22 consecutive weeks on a best-seller list.

"I am the only girl who has been up there that long whose book wasn't a selection by a major book club."

Her nearest rival, "Peyton Place," by Grace Metalious, also ducked by the book clubs, never was first on the list for more than 18 straight weeks.

Miss Susann has a ready explanation as to why the book clubs ignored her maiden fiction production. She thinks they are a bit stuffy, if not sissy.

"Book clubs don't go in for violence or sex unless they're in a spy story," she said.

Aided by the promotional skill of her husband, Irving Mansfield, a television producer, Jackie has put on perhaps the most extraordinary one-woman publicity campaigns in literary history. She figures she has made 100 radio and television appearances and, like the jacket of her book she's easy to look at.

The campaign has helped, but Jackie feels merchandising isn't the answer to her success.

"Many good books don't get off the ground because they aren't publicized," she said. "But you can't cram a dull or uninteresting book down the public's throat."

"Some of the professional critics sneer at my writing. They say it is too simple and lacks style."

"They don't know the back-breaking labor I went to for three years to cut out adjectives and make my writing simple. Anybody can sit down and write a description of a beautiful sunset, but to write terse dialogue, to create lifelike characters — that isn't easy for anyone."

"I am really only a story teller, but that's what the public seems to want most — a good story."

Jackie expects to have her second novel, "The Love Machine," which deals with the fate of a handsome television tycoon, ready by spring, and is planning a third novel.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — Early next year we will have completed six years of superboom, 72 months during which Americans made more material progress than some civilizations accomplished in centuries.

This progress comes after a couple of centuries of industrial revolution and refinement, the basic change of which has been to make Americans urban dwellers and office and factory workers rather than rural farmers.

Hundreds of millions of persons around the world still base their daily activities on supplying the essentials — food, clothing and shelter. This search pre-empts any other consideration.

Where have the many centuries of progress and the latest six years of superboom left us? Here are some of the facts, gathered at random from government statistics.

We'll spend about $4.5 billion this year putting up private buildings, most of them office structures and warehouses. Last year stores, restaurants and garages led the list.

Church construction reached a peak in 1962 and has now dropped a bit to an average of about a billion dollars a year. Farm construction continues downward. We'll spend $4.5 billion on public schools but close to $8 billion on highway construction.

There are enough cars on the road now to accommodate everyone in the front seat. They're being turned out at the rate of nine million a year, one-quarter of them air-conditioned. We make 150 million passenger car tires a year.

On average, we now eat 20.5 pounds of candy a year, drink 16 gallons of beer and other malt beverages, and 14 gallons of soft drinks. Low-calorie drinks now account for one-quarter of those 14 gallons.

We'll produce more than 125 million tons of steel this year, close to a record. Much of it will be for farm machinery, a booming business because of mechanization. Although the number of farms is decreasing, $4 billion of farm machinery will be shipped this year.

Construction machinery to clear and rebuild the landscape to our suiting is another growth industry. This year shipments probably will be up for the sixth straight year to a total of $1.4 billion.

Our railroads, the wire that held together the industrial revolution, seem to be rebuilding — based on eight million wood railroad ties expected to be made this year.

We're buying larger refrigerators, most of them 14 cubic foot boxes. The automatic ice-maker has caught on so well the industry expects to make it standard on a million refrigerators in 1970.

Color television production this year may double 1964's total of 1.4 million units. We'll spend $300 million on phonograph records, more if a hot singer shows on the scene.

The use of electronic computers is on an almost start-up course. The U.S. government, including the Internal Revenue Service, is the biggest user. It now has more than 2,000 of them.

We're spending $25 billion for entertainment but less of it for movies.

This isn't a profile of the American economy. It isn't a full-face portrait either. It is a picture that can be interpreted whatever way the viewer pleases.

LAFF-A-DAY

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A SALESMAN for a big Minneapolis outfit reports a trip aboard a train deep in the interior of an underdeveloped country. The station agent sold him a first-class ticket, but when the rickety, wood-burning locomotive wheezed into sight it was pulling only one dilapidated coach.

"What's the good of having this first-class ticket?" demanded the salesman when the conductor came round. "Just wait and see," advised the conductor.

Sure enough, 50 miles up the line, the train ground to a halt. The conductor shouted something and all the other passengers climbed down to the ground where they were handed an assortment of axes and buckets. "See?" explained the conductor. "First-class passengers don't work. Second-class carry water, and third-class chop wood."

How often, muses Norman Kline, the choice of a felicitous title for a book spells the difference between best-sellerdom and oblivion. How many readers, for example, would have bought books with such titles as Moby Richard, This Side of Paramus, Farewell to Feet, Gulliver's Trips, or Treasure Peninsula?

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What is the medical meaning of indigestion?

Indigestion, or dyspepsia, is a combination of symptoms resulting from the improper functioning of the esophagus, the stomach and the small intestine.

The symptoms may occur singly, or in combination, and may include heartburn, nausea, a feeling of fullness and distention, belching, abdominal pain and abdominal cramps, especially noted after eating or drinking.

What are the most common causes of indigestion?

Overloading the stomach, eating too rapidly, inadequate chewing of food, eating during periods of emotional stress, overuse of alcohol and tobacco, eating spoiled food or food that has not been properly refrigerated are only some of the major causes of dyspepsia.

Many people find that they are allergic or sensitive to certain specific foods. They learn or should learn by past experience, just what foods or spices to avoid.

It is well known that some people can easily tolerate the "hottest," most peppery foods, while others feel that their insides are virtually burnt out with highly seasoned curry, pepper, or chili-seasoned foods.

Foods with a high fat content, and gas-forming foods like cabbage, onions and turnips, may affect the delicate lining of the stomach and change the speed with which the foods are digested and passed through the stomach and into the intestine.

People who are known to have gall bladder disease will suffer with indigestion if they violate the strict orders of their diet by eating fatty or spicy foods.

Ulcer patients know that they should avoid highly seasoned foods, alcohol and coffee, and limit themselves to bland, soothing foods without roughage. It must be remembered that the stomach complains easily when its neighbors, the liver, the gall bladder and the pancreas have been offended.

How can one find the cause for persistent indigestion?

Chronic bouts of indigestion deserve a thorough survey, first by general physical examination, and then by many of the specialized tests that are now available.

X-rays of the esophagus, the stomach, and the intestines can rule out the presence of ulcers, hiatus hernia, and other abnormalities.

Gall bladder disease can be studied with special dyes to determine the presence or absence of stones, inflammation, or obstruction to the normal passage of bile.

Bile is very important as an enzyme for the complete digestion of foods.

Even kidney disease and heart disease can produce many of the vague symptoms that are classed as dyspepsia.

What is the best way to prevent the symptoms of indigestion?

When it has been satisfactorily decided that there is no special or serious reason for the dyspepsia, then the control of the symptoms is based on reasonable care of choice of foods and drink.

1. Eat smaller quantities of food at more regular intervals.
2. Chew food thoroughly and without rushing.
3. Eat in a relaxed atmosphere free from emotional stress.
4. Don't try to work out tense family problems at the dinner table.
5. Avoid the foods you al-

Robert Manry, who crossed the Atlantic alone in his 13½-foot Tinkerbelle a year ago, is setting sail again.

This time he plans a 5,000-mile, one-year cruise . . . considerably longer, and more leisurely, than his 3,200-mile, 78-day journey from Falmouth, Mass., to Falmouth, England.

He's going in a Tinkerbelle II that is twice as long as the first one, and not venturing beyond the inland and coastal waters of the eastern United States. For this trip his wife, Virginia, and teenage children, Robin and Douglas, are going along.

One summer of staying home in Wil- lowick, O., while dad had all the adventure was apparently enough for them.

Cars and Cities

The chairman of Mayor Lindsay's Transportation Council in New York City says "responsible people" suggest closing Manhattan's bridges and tunnels to commuter cars from 7:30 to 10 a. m. to force the use of public transportation instead of private automobiles.

This recalls the recommendation of the Department of Commerce a few years ago, that municipalities levy tolls on incoming motor-vehicle traffic. The toll revenues, along with higher parking fees, were to be used to subsidize rapid-transit facilities.

Nothing came of it and nothing is going to come of the idea for morning rush-hour ban on Manhattan's approaches. There are legal as well as practical obstacles.

The automobile has done much for, as well as to, cities. Contrived restrictions on its access to central business districts could be self-defeating. Uncomfortable congestion could be replaced by unprofitable stagnation.

Many drive to work because they have no alternative. And it must be assumed that the others, those who refuse to use available trains and buses, must also have good reasons, else why would they undergo the daily ordeal of driving?

Undoubtedly, an excess of automobiles on their streets is part of what's wrong with cities, but exclusion is not a feasible solution.

Spicy Fable Earns $$$

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Susann, who admits she is a poor speller, also made a slight error in arithmetic early this year.

She estimated then that her first novel, "Valley of the Dolls," might earn as much as a million dollars.

"Now I figure it will gross at least $2 million, and it should go much higher than that," said the pretty, dark-haired actress turned author.

Jackie's spicy fable of the price paid for success by four lovely ladies in the entertainment jungles of television, Broadway and Hollywood has been a runaway literary sensation as well as a personal bonanza.

Printing orders for the hardcover edition of the novel have gone past the $50,000 mark. The book has been sold to the movies, 15 foreign editions have been arranged, and 1½ million paperback copies will be distributed in 1968.

But Jackie is proudest of the fact that her novel has been No. 1 for 22 consecutive weeks on a best-seller list.

"I am the only girl who has been up there that long whose book wasn't a selection by a major book club."

Her nearest rival, "Peyton Place," by Grace Metalious, also ducked by the book clubs, never was first on the list for more than 18 straight weeks.

Miss Susann has a ready explanation as to why the book clubs ignored her maiden fiction production. She thinks they are a bit stuffy, if not silly.

"Book clubs don't go in for violence or sex unless they're in a spy story," she said.

Aided by the promotional skill of her husband, Irving Maass, a television producer, Jackie has put on perhaps the most extraordinary one-woman publicity campaign in literary history. She figures she has made 100 radio and television appearances and, like the jacket of her book she's easy to look at.

The campaign has helped, but Jackie feels merchandising isn't the answer to her success.

"Many good books don't get off the ground because they aren't publicized," she said. "But you can't cram a dull or uninteresting book down the public's throat."

"Some of the professional critics sneer at my writing. They say it is too simple and lacks style."

"They don't know the back-breaking labor I went to for three years to cut out adjectives and make my writing simple. Anybody can sit down and write a description of a beautiful sunset, but to write terse dialogue, to create likable characters — that isn't easy for anyone."

"I am really only a story teller, but that's what the public seems to want most — a good story."

Jackie expects to have her second novel, "The Love Machine," which deals with the fate of a handsome television tycoon, ready by spring, and is planning a third novel.

The Business World

By John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Early next year we will have completed six years of superboom, 72 months during which Americans made more material progress than some civilizations accomplished in centuries.

This progress comes after a couple of centuries of industrial revolution and refinement, the basic change of which has been to make Americans urban dwellers and office and factory workers rather than rural farmers.

Hundreds of millions of persons around the world still base their daily activities on supplying the essentials — food, clothing and shelter. This search pre-empts any other consideration.

Where have the many centuries of progress and the latest six years of superboom left us? Here are some of the facts, gathered at random from government statistics.

We'll spend about $4.5 billion this year putting up private buildings, most of them office structures and warehouses. Last year stores, restaurants and garages led the list.

Church construction reached a peak in 1962 and has now dropped a bit to an average of about a billion dollars a year. Farm construction continues downward. We'll spend $4.5 billion on public schools but close to $8 billion on highway construction.

There are enough cars on the road now to accommodate everyone in the front seat. They're being turned out at the rate of nine million a year, one-quarter of them air-conditioned. We make 150 million passenger car tires a year.

On average, we now eat 20.5 pounds of candy a year, drink 16 gallons of beer and other malt beverages, and 14 gallons of soft drinks. Low-calorie drinks now account for one-quarter of those 14 gallons.

We'll produce more than 75 million tons of steel this year, close to a record. Much of it will be for farm machinery, a booming business because of mechanization. Although the number of farms is decreasing, $4 billion of farm machinery will be shipped this year.

Construction machinery to clear and rebuild the landscape to our suiting is another growth industry. This year shipments probably will be up for the sixth straight year to a total of $1.4 billion.

Our railroads, the wire that held together the industrial revolution, seem to be rebuilding — based on eight million wood railroad ties expected to be made this year.

We're buying larger refrigerators, most of them 14 cubic foot boxes. The automatic ice-maker has caught on so well the industry expects to make it standard on a million refrigerators in 1970.

Color television production this year may double 1964's total of 1.4 million units. We'll spend $300 million on phonograph records, more if a hot singer shows on the scene.

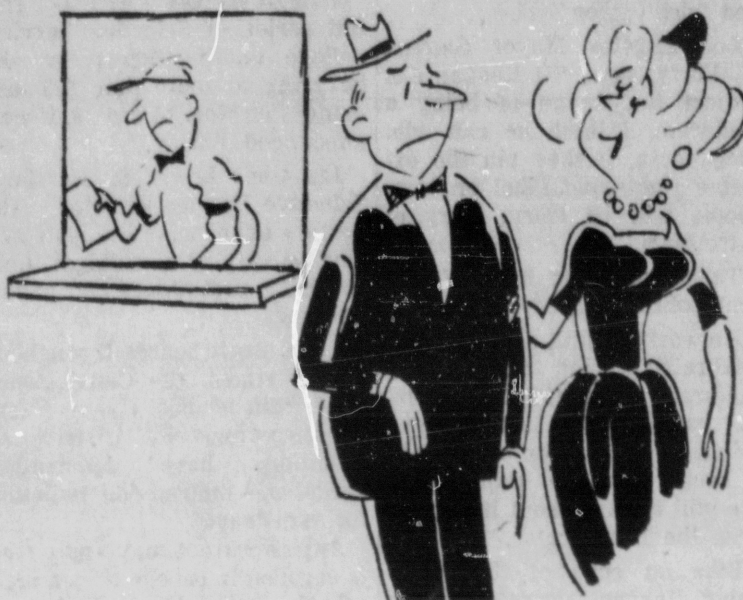

The use of electronic computers is on an almost straight-up course. The U.S. government, including the Internal Revenue Service, is the biggest user. It now has more than 2,000 of them.

We're spending $25 billion for entertainment but less of it for movies.

This isn't a profile of the American economy. It isn't a fulsome portrait either. It is a picture that can be interpreted whatever way the viewer pleases.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A SALESMAN for a big Minneapolis outfit reports a trip aboard a train deep in the interior of an underdeveloped country. The station agent sold him a first-class ticket, but when the rickety, wood-burning locomotive wheezed into sight it was pulling only one dilapidated coach.

"What's the good of having this first-class ticket?" demanded the salesman when the conductor came round. "Just wait and see," advised the conductor.

Sure enough, 50 miles up the line, the train ground to a halt. The conductor shouted something and all the other passengers climbed down to the ground where they were handed an assortment of axes and buckets. "See?" explained the conductor. "First-class passengers don't work. Second-class carry water, and third-class chop wood."

How often, muses Norman Kline, the choice of a felicitous title for a book spells the difference between best-sellerdom and oblivion. How many readers, for example, would have bought books with such titles as Moby Richard, This Side of Paramus, Farewell to Feet, Gulliver's Trips, or Treasure Peninsula?

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

What is the medical meaning of indigestion?

Indigestion, or dyspepsia, is a combination of symptoms resulting from the improper functioning of the esophagus, the stomach and the small intestine.

The symptoms may occur singly, or in combination, and may include heartburn, nausea, a feeling of fullness and distention, belching, abdominal pain and abdominal cramps, especially noted after eating or drinking.

What are the most common causes of indigestion?

Overloading the stomach, eating too rapidly, inadequate chewing of food, eating during periods of emotional stress, overuse of alcohol and tobacco, eating spoiled food or food that has not been properly refrigerated are only some of the major causes of dyspepsia.

Many people find that they are allergic or sensitive to certain specific foods. They learn or should learn by past experience, just what foods or spices to avoid.

It is well known that some people can easily tolerate the "hottest," most peppery foods, while others feel that their insides are virtually burnt out with highly seasoned curry, pepper, or chili-seasoned foods.

Foods with a high fat content, and gas-forming foods like cabbage, onions and turnips, may affect the delicate lining of the stomach and change the speed with which the foods are digested and passed through the stomach and into the intestine.

People who are known to have gall bladder disease will suffer with indigestion if they violate the strict orders of their diet by eating fatty or spicy foods.

Ulcer patients know that they should avoid highly seasoned foods, alcohol and coffee, and limit themselves to bland, soothing foods without roughage.

It must be remembered that the stomach complains easily when its neighbors, the liver, the gall bladder and the pancreas have been offended.

How can one find the cause for persistent indigestion?

Chronic bouts of indigestion deserve a thorough survey, first by general physical examination, and then by many of the specialized tests that are now available.

X-rays of the esophagus, the stomach, and the intestines can

Military Wants Zone Defoliated

DONG HA, South Via Nam (AP) — Senior American military officers want to defoliate the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam, but they are encountering obstacles.

The high-ranking officers want to use chemicals to kill the leaves of trees and other plants along the zone, depriving North Vietnamese infiltrators of natural cover.

The advocates apparently have not cleared the hurdle of Pentagon permission.

The United States now estimates 6,000 men a month are moving into South Viet Nam from the Communist north. Many use the direct route across the demilitarized zone. Others take a longer, more difficult journey through Laos and Cambodia.

Reconnaissance teams working from observation posts on the ground try to keep a watch on the demilitarized zone's traffic, but lack of mobility and need for concealment hamper them.

The argument is that if all the leaves were killed, small airplanes could take over the job in the daytime. If equipped with infrared spotter scopes, they could even do it at night.

The 1954 Geneva convention which divided Viet Nam into two countries made the demilitarized zone a no-man's land where no military activity was supposed to take place.

Last July 31, the United States began using B52 bombers from Guam to strike the zone, explaining this was necessary to stop Communist infiltration to the south. The clandestine movements did not stop, and the bombings continue.

The men running the war are hesitant to approve defoliation of the zone itself because of international criticism such a move is likely to evoke.

An alternate plan, known to be popular with top U.S. officers in Viet Nam, is to defoliate a wide strip of countryside just south of the zone's southern boundary. A buffer strip flanks the river which is the actual border between the two Viet Nams.

Men in a position to recommend defoliation estimate such a project would require 2,000 airplane loads of chemicals.

Salvation Army Helpful to Many

EDITOR'S NOTE — Here is one of a series of articles designed to familiarize Pickaway Countians with services provided by seven agencies supported by the Community Fund. This year's campaign will be conducted through Oct. 10. The goal is $43,000.

The Salvation Army is represented in Pickaway County by a service unit committee made up of volunteer workers.

The local committee lends assistance to those needing immediate help. Members often work in cooperation with other local agencies in providing this service.

During the past year 481 people received aid from the local committee. This assistance ranged from food and rent payments for local families, meals and lodging for transients, summer camp for 14 local youths and assistance to local families at Christmas.

Another project provided 12 local families with furniture.

To carry on this necessary work the local volunteer committee will receive $4,850 from the current Pickaway County Community Fund Drive.

Dog Adopts Duck Family

FORT SCOTT, Kan. (AP) — Cleo, a female beagle, has adopted a family of two ducks.

Bought for the children of the R. L. Morton family when they were ducklings, Cleo took them over and guarded them as she would her own puppies.

Thursday a youth described by Mrs. Morton as about 15 entered the family's backyard and grabbed one of the ducks. Cleo dashed out from under the back porch, locked onto the youth's hand and wouldn't let go.

Mrs. Norton says when the dog barks with a certain tone the ducks, now full grown, come running. If there is any apparent danger, Cleo herds them under the porch and stands guard, she said.

Pat Boone's New Show Geared to Young Women

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Starting Oct. 19, housewives will be able to find a new companion amid the plethora of soap operas and games shows of daytime television. His name: Pat Boone.

The all-American boy, now 32, will be offering a half-hour, late-morning variety show aimed at young married women. He adds that any older ladies, children or men who happen to be home at that hour are welcome to tune in.

"But the show's main appeal is for young adults," says Pat. "I offered several names as sidekick-announcer for the show, and NBC rejected them, saying I should have a younger personality. We hope to have a young-looking band and will aim for youthful guests as well."

To retain the youthful pattern, he expects to feature frequent appearances of his answer to the Lennon sisters: Cherry Boone, 12; Lindy Boone, 10; Debby Boone, 9; and Laury Boone, 8.

Why is he doing the show? "For two main reasons," he replied. "One is that it will give me a chance to stay at home for a change, instead of traveling all over the world for appearances."

"The second reason is that the show will allow me to do the things that I couldn't do before: to ad lib with guest stars and with the audience and to sing a lot of songs. I'll be doing three a day — that's 15 a week — whereas I used to sing three a week on my night show."

Boone started out in television as part of the Arthur Godfrey family 11 years ago. He had previously appeared on Ted Mack's Amateur Hour. The glib redneck gave the boy a good education in audience pleasing, and at 23 Boone was offered his own night show.

"Godfrey advised against it," Pat recalled. "He said I was too young to take on my own show and I should stay with him for a few more years before going out on my own. But I decided to take a chance."

Fleming, star of the television series "Rawhide," was lost when his canoe capsized in the swift-flowing Huallaga River Wednesday.

Salvation Army Helpful to Many

EDITOR'S NOTE — Here is one of a series of articles designed to familiarize Pickaway Countians with services provided by seven agencies supported by the Community Fund. This year's campaign will be conducted through Oct. 10. The goal is $43,000.

The Salvation Army is represented in Pickaway County by a service unit committee made up of volunteer workers.

The local committee lends assistance to those needing immediate help. Members often work in cooperation with other local agencies in providing this service.

During the past year 481 people received aid from the local committee. This assistance ranged from food and rent payments for local families, meals and lodging for transients, summer camp for 14 local youths and assistance to local families at Christmas.

Another project provided 12 local families with furniture.

To carry on this necessary work the local volunteer committee will receive $4,850 from the current Pickaway County Community Fund Drive.

An attractive certificate symbolic of this achievement will be presented to a representative of the company Oct. 26 at a banquet in the Grand Ballroom of the New York Hilton Hotel.

Colonel Willard F. Rockwell, twice honored with Freedoms Foundation Awards for outstanding speeches and writing to advance a "better understanding of the American Way of Life," will deliver the principal address. He will focus on the need for sound economic and fiscal government policies.

Dog Adopts Duck Family

FORT SCOTT, Kan. (AP) — Cleo, a female beagle, has adopted a family of two ducks.

Bought for the children of the R. L. Morton family when they were ducklings, Cleo took them over and guarded them as she would her own puppies.

Thursday a youth described by Mrs. Morton as about 15 entered the family's backyard and grabbed one of the ducks. Cleo dashed out from under the back porch, locked onto the youth's hand and wouldn't let go.

Mrs. Norton says when the dog barks with a certain tone the ducks, now full grown, come running. If there is any apparent danger, Cleo herds them under the porch and stands guard, she said.

Pat Boone's New Show Geared to Young Women

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Starting Oct. 19, housewives will be able to find a new companion amid the plethora of soap operas and games shows of daytime television. His name: Pat Boone.

The all-American boy, now 32, will be offering a half-hour, late-morning variety show aimed at young married women. He adds that any older ladies, children or men who happen to be home at that hour are welcome to tune in.

"But the show's main appeal is for young adults," says Pat. "I offered several names as sidekick-announcer for the show, and NBC rejected them, saying I should have a younger personality. We hope to have a young-looking band and will aim for youthful guests as well."

To retain the youthful pattern, he expects to feature frequent appearances of his answer to the Lennon sisters: Cherry Boone, 12; Lindy Boone, 10; Debby Boone, 9; and Laury Boone, 8.

Why is he doing the show? "For two main reasons," he replied. "One is that it will give me a chance to stay at home for a change, instead of traveling all over the world for appearances."

"The second reason is that the show will allow me to do the things that I couldn't do before: to ad lib with guest stars and with the audience and to sing a lot of songs. I'll be doing three a day — that's 15 a week — whereas I used to sing three a week on my night show."

Boone started out in television as part of the Arthur Godfrey family 11 years ago. He had previously appeared on Ted Mack's Amateur Hour. The glib redneck gave the boy a good education in audience pleasing, and at 23 Boone was offered his own night show.

"Godfrey advised against it," Pat recalled. "He said I was too young to take on my own show and I should stay with him for a few more years before going out on my own. But I decided to take a chance."

'Rawhide' Star Drowns in Peru

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Television actor Eric Fleming drowned in a remote river in Peru's back country while filming a jungle picture, the U.S. Embassy announced Friday.

Fleming, 41, was on location in the Tingo Maria area, 340 miles northeast of Lima, an embassy spokesman said.

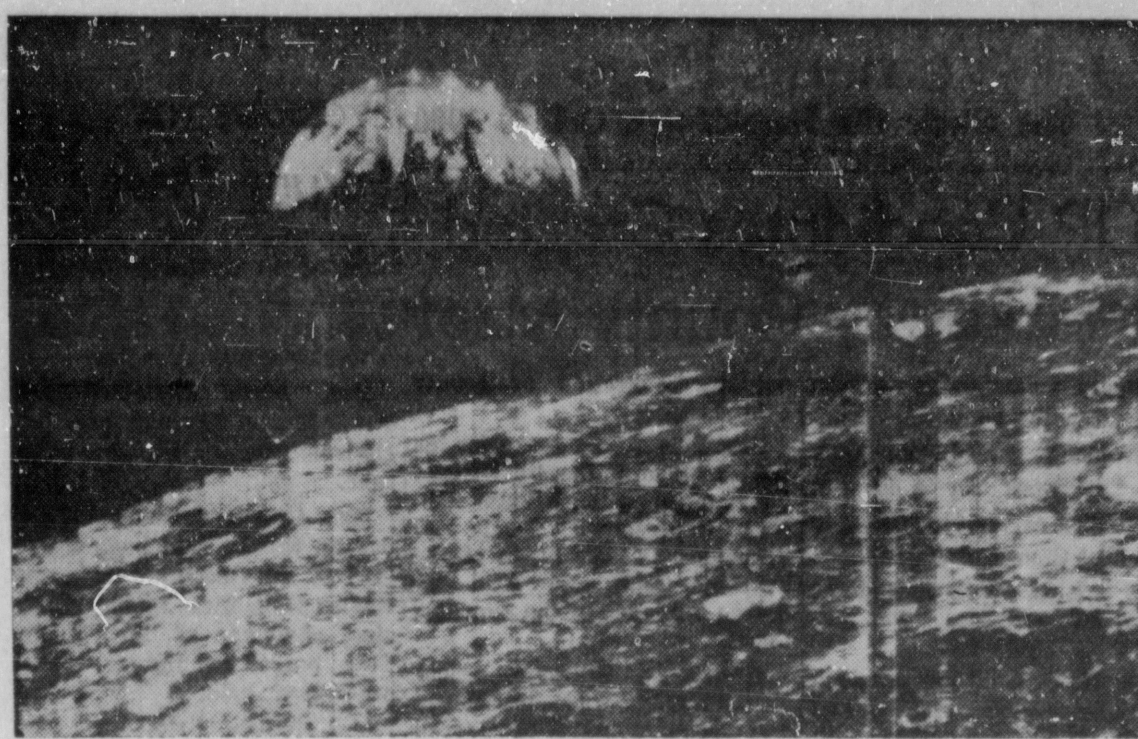

Fleming, star of the television series "Rawhide," was lost when his canoe capsized in the swift-flowing Huallaga River Wednesday.

Search parties are continuing efforts to recover the body.

Raiders Report

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 22-man Ohio industry - seeking squad that spent this week in Chicago returned Friday with 37 prospects, according to Fred P. Neuenschwander, state development director. He said "21 could be called immediate prospects."

This was the 37th "Rhodes Raider blitz" trip during the present administration.

Dear Abby: Dad Shuns Responsibility

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY Our boys are 12 and 14, and I have been after my husband for years to tell them the facts of life. He says his father never told him anything. All he knows he picked up from his friends and he turned out O.K. Could my husband be right?

MOM

DEAR MOM: Possibly. It's all right for kids to learn the facts of life from other kids, as long as the other kids didn't pick them out of the gutter. Tell hubby to provide the boys with some good books on the subject or offer to answer any questions. And he had better hurry, or it will be like giving fish a bath.

DEAR ABBY: Five years ago my mother passed away and dad was left heart - broken at 63. Two years later he married a 58-year-old widow. He told us that he was marrying Celia for "companionship" — that nobody could ever take mama's place. Well, here is a sample of the "companionship" he has had so far:

In the winter, instead of accompanying dad to Palm Springs, Celia goes to Chicago to stay with her grandchildren so her daughter can go to Florida for two months with her husband.

In the summer, Celia, goes to another daughter who stays up there for the hay fever season. When Celia is home with dad, she plays cards with the "girls" at least three days a week.

Dad is retired and has nothing to do, but he's too sweet to complain. Is this your idea of "companionship"? Any suggestions will be appreciated.

HIS CONCERNED DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: For all I know, your father and Celia may be seeing as much of each other as they wish. If you father isn't happy with what he bought, tell him to write to me.

DEAR ABBY: Is it ever proper, when in the company of a woman to ask, "Are they real?" To use an old phrase. "It's fun to be fooled, but it's more fun to know."

LIKES FUN

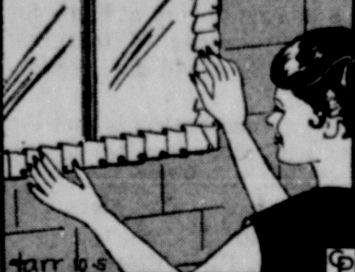

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me in simple language how psychiatry helps a person? For as I can see it only opens old wounds and makes matters worse.

MAN OF FEW WORDS

DEAR MAN: Life is full of conflicts, heartaches and frustrations, which call for one adjustment after another. People differ in their ability to adjust.

By allowing troubled ones to discuss their emotions frankly, the reasons for their insecurity, guilt, frustrations and hostilities comes to light and are frequently just knowing that others have experienced the same emotions can bring blessed relief.

Members desiring to visit the VA Hospital and help entertain the veterans may contact Mrs. Simson 474-4514. The next visitation day will be October 17.

The business meeting was adjourned with a prayer for peace, given by Mrs. Orin Dreisbach, chaplain.

A social hour was enjoyed after the meeting. Cake and coffee was served by Mrs. Webbe and Mrs. Mary Hedges.

The refreshment committee for next month's meeting will be Mrs. Lucile Pickel and Mrs. Jean Moon.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Saturday, Oct. 1, the 274th day of 1966. There are 91 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, the Medal of Merit was presented to composer Irving Berlin for creating and producing the musical revue "This is the Army."

On this date: In 1781, American naval officer James Lawrence was born. Lawrence, commanding the ship "Chesapeake" was mortally wounded in battle. His dying words: "Don't give up the ship," became the battle cry of the nation.

In 1908, the first Model T Ford was made.

In 1946, 19 ranking Nazi leaders were found guilty as war criminals and were sentenced to death. These included Hermann Goering, who killed himself before he could be executed.

Ten years ago — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer called for what he termed a revitalization of the seven-nation Western European Union and the revamping of it into a confederation so that, in his words: "Europe still remains of some importance in the world."

Tigers Stage Uphill Climb for 12-7 Win

Greenfield Victim In Soggy Contest

By STEVE JONES

Circleville fought from behind on a rainy Friday night at Greenfield, downing the McClain Tigers, 12-7, for a thrilling start in South Central League action.

The winning touchdown came with just 38 seconds remaining when Steve Dade took a pitchout from Bob Tootle on the nine. He skirted his own right end and dove into the end zone.

Rain was a big factor in the game which saw the hosts control the ball in the third quarter when they mounted their scoring drive.

Circleville lost the toss of the coin at the outset and kicked off. McClain took the ball on the 30 and moved to the 46 yard stripe in three plays.

But the McClain backfield bobbled the slippery pigskin in the backfield and Rod Sines pounced on it at the Greenfield 34 to set up the first scoring series.

Circleville stuck to the ground. Tootle called on Dade for five yards and then handed off to sophomore fullback Eddie Wells on two successive tries for six. Dade carried three times, gaining five yards on his first try and losing two on the next two tries.

At that point, Tootle uncorked one of the few passes thrown, hitting Fletcher for 17 yards. The Tigers had a first and goal on the Greenfield four.

A quarterback sneak covered three yards. Then Dade went in for the touchdown that brought cheer to a dampened but loyal contingent of Roundtown fans.

The remainder of the first quarter and the entire second canto were uneventful for both teams. Neither was able to move the ball, due mainly to slippery footing.

Beginning the third quarter, Circleville received the kickoff but was unable to move the ball. The Tigers were forced to punt. Greenfield took over on its own 26 and in a time consuming drive marched 74 yards to pay dirt early in the fourth period.

THE LONGEST gain for Greenfield in the drive was 16 yards. Most of the yardage came on three, four and five yard plunges over the left side of the Tiger line.

The scoring effort was a one yard plunge by fullback Sam Daugherty over the right side of the line and came three plays into the fourth quarter.

Westfall Loses to Unioto, 44-0

Unioto defeated Westfall, 44-0, in a rain soaked game Friday on the Mustang field.

The game, second meeting of the two Scioto Valley Conference schools, counted in the league standings.

Raymond Cox scored on a 45 yard run for Unioto. Tom Echeard tallied on runs of 10 and five yards. Dee Mays crossed the goal line on a four-yard scramble and Tom Brown added 12 points on runs of 30 and 20 yards.

Brown added two conversion runs for the Shermans while the other two points came on a safety.

point to put the host team ahead, 7-6.

On the ensuing kickoff, Tom Wright ran the ball back to the Tiger 41. On the first play from scrimmage, a holding infraction against Greenfield put the ball on Greenfield's 36 where it was first and ten for the Tigers.

Dade carried twice for 17 yards and Wells picked up four, moving the ball to Greenfield's 15 yard stripe.

But the outlook changed when Circleville lost the ball on a fumble, with 6:02 remaining.

GREENFIELD recovered on the 17 and moved out to the 25 before kicking. Just a little more than three minutes of playing time remained. The ball rolled dead on the CHS 40 yard line.

Dade carried twice for three yards. Tootle kept the ball on the next play and picked up a first down.

Wells and Dade combined to cover the next 25 yards of ground.

Tootle, battling the clock, went to the air again. His aim was straight and true as he hit Ron Bryant near the left sideline for a 15-yard gain and a first down just over the 10-yard line.

Dade then skirted end for his TD, with only a few seconds remaining on the timepiece.

Tom Fletcher was a standout on defense for Circleville. The Tiger linebacker made 18 tackles, including six in a row during Greenfield's long TD drive. He also was credited with three assists.

BILL GATES was second in tackles with six. He was in on eight others. Tom Wright had four tackles, Craig Lambert and Steve Carroll were in on three each.

It was truly a come from behind win for Circleville. The Tigers moved out front early, converting a recovered fumble into a scoring drive.

A try for the extra point was a pass from Tootle to Dade, but it bounced off the intended receiver's helmet incomplete. Greenfield then came back with its time consuming ground game, controlling the ball almost an entire period.

Circleville lost the ball and a scoring opportunity on the 15-yard line and time was growing short. The Red and Black defense dug in and held the hosts in a mighty effort to give the offense another chance. The Tigers then mounted a 60-yard victory drive.

Greenfield had tried only three passes prior to the closing seconds of the game.

But with time running out, they went into a shotgun formation and Kensing hurled three in a row. On his fourth attempt, he was hit hard, fumbled and Craig Lambert came up with the ball.

Circleville had one more play, but chose to hold on to it with a quarterback sneak rather than chance an intercepted pass or fumble.

The winning TD coming in the last 38 seconds, Miami Trace defeated Hillsboro, 8-0, scoring a touchdown with just 12 seconds to go.

Wilmington scored eight points in the first quarter and eight in the last period for a 16-0 decision over Washington. Hillsboro, on the short end of two lopsided scored in prelop tilts, surprised the Trace Panthers by battling them on even terms for the better part of four periods.

AN INTERCEPTION with just 33 seconds remaining set up Trace's touchdown. The Indians' big line was equal to the Panthers', but their inexperienced backfield could not come up with the scoring punch.

Wilmington, although the Hurricane is reportedly using a prototype offense, it stuck to the ground to grind out a win over Washington's "Mighty Mites," as they have been dubbed by their fans. The Blue Lions' passing threat was minimized by rain.

Next week Circleville hosts Miami Trace, Wilmington is at Hillsboro and Greenfield McClain is at Washington C. H.

PUNT RETURN — Tom Wright (35), Circleville's speedy run-back man, pounds into the interference after a Greenfield punt. The Tigers of Roundtown won the SCO League opener, 12-7, on McClain's muddy field.

Tiger Pointers

"I was as proud of this team tonight as I have ever been of any boys that I have ever been associated with," Coach Paul Starr said after the game.

"They came from behind, and it takes guts to come from behind. The boys went in there and took the game away from Greenfield."

When Starr followed his jubilant team into the dressing room after the tilt, he was practically mobbed by all the boys.

Guard and center coach Kent Carpenter was also exceptionally pleased with the Tigers' performance. "That's the mark of a great team when they come from behind like the boys did out there tonight."

Starr just couldn't find enough superlatives to describe his squad. "These boys don't have an abundance of ability, but they really want to play football and they don't quit," he enthused. "I think maybe they really found themselves out there tonight."

Happy as everybody was to see the win there was one sad note. Fullback Tom Jenkins wrenched his knee on the last play of the first half. The rugged senior may be lost to the team for a week or more.

Jenkins' running in the last part of the second quarter was one of the few offensive bright spots for Circleville in that period. Already lacking in depth, the injury will hurt the Tigers.

It's almost a jinx to be a senior fullback on the Circleville High School team.

Duke Fyffe, an outstanding power runner for Circleville was hurt as a senior several seasons ago. But Mike Ramey stepped into the game and did a good job of running.

Ramey himself was hurt when he was a senior and Jenkins took over. Now Jenkins is out and sophomore Mike Wells did a good job in the second half from the fullback slot.

Circleville High School fans who braved the inclement weather to make the journey to Greenfield watched what has to be one of the most exciting tilts played by the Tiger in recent years. But the crowd was very light.

The band made the trip, and remained in their buses, both at halftime and for pregame ceremonies. The buses were parked right beside the playing field, offering bandmen the driest viewing spot if not quite the best.

Most fans would gladly have sacrificed a little bit of view of the field for the dry comfort of a schoolbus seat.

Even though it had rained all day at Greenfield and poured throughout the game, the playing field was in comparatively good shape. The McClain gridiron was well drained and there was no puddles of water. It also had a good sod covering.

Circleville is now looking ahead to its game with Miami Trace here next Friday.

LA Rams Whip Winless 49ers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach Jack Christiansen of the San Francisco 49ers, a man of few words and one who likes to leave the scene of football accidents as soon as possible, remains in character.

After watching the 49ers take a 34-3 whipping Friday night from the Los Angeles Rams, Christiansen made this succinct observation:

"I have just one thing to say. We stunk the joint out from start to finish. And that's it."

With that, the 49ers' boss flipped his overcoat over his shoulder and marched out of the dressing room in Los Angeles' Memorial Coliseum.

The game between the two National Football League California teams, unrehearsed before 45,642, was a prelude to resumption of the NFL action Sunday.

The champion Green Bay Packers, seeking their fourth straight triumph, entertain Detroit in a Western Division battle, and St. Louis, the Eastern loop leader, also unbeaten in three, is at Philadelphia.

Other games in the NFL; Dallas at Atlanta, Cleveland at New York, Chicago at Minnesota and Pittsburgh at Washington.

The brutal Ram defense gave San Francisco's quarterback, John Brodie, a bad night. It intercepted four Brodie throws and turned three of them into two field goals and a touchdown.

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Neloy, thoroughbred racing's No. 1 stakes and money winning trainer of 1966, put his divide-and-conquer program back into operation today with millionaire Buckpasser heading the bid for victories in the two richest stakes of the day.

Buckpasser, winner of his last nine starts and $1,038,369 in taking 18 of his 21 career starts, was the 6-5 favorite to whip eight rivals in the 1 mile $100,000-added Woodward at Aueduct.

Bold and Brave, one of the lesser known of the Neloy stable, was the top attraction for the 11-16 mile $50,000-added Hawthorne Diamond Jubilee at Chicago.

The Woodward, a weight-for-age race which has attracted a field of nine including Buffalo's Tom Rolfe and Malicious, would be worth $112,600 if all start, with $73,190 earmarked for the winner.

Victory in the Hawthorne headliner will be good for $38,250 of the purse, which totals $62,750 with 13 starters.

Tigers Stage Uphill Climb for 12-7 Win

Greenfield Victim In Soggy Contest

By STEVE JONES

Circleville fought from behind on a rainy Friday night at Greenfield, downing the McClain Tigers, 12-7, for a thrilling start in South Central League action.

The winning touchdown came with just 38 seconds remaining when Steve Dade took a pitchout from Bob Tootle on the nine. He skidded his own right end and dove into the end zone.

Rain was a big factor in the game which saw the hosts control the ball in the third quarter when they mounted their scoring drive.

Circleville lost the toss of the coin at the outset and kicked off. McClain took the ball on the 30 and moved to the 46 yard stripe in three plays.

BUT the McClain backfield bobbled the slippery pigskin in the backfield and Rod Sines pounced on it at the Greenfield 34 to set up the first scoring series.

Just as the half ended, Hamilton completed a pass that carried inside the Viking five. But time ran out before they could get another play under way.

In the third period, Hamilton took the kickoff. Inside Teays Valley territory, the Rangers gambled on a fourth down play but failed to make the yardage needed for a first down. The Vikings in turn could not move the ball, turning it over on downs.

Teays Valley's defense toughened and held for three downs. Linemen then crashed through to block a punt inside the Ranger 30.

TV failed to capitalize on the opportunity and again turned the ball over on downs.

Their defense held for the second time in the period and for the second time crashed through and blocked a punt, again inside the 30.

ROESE hit Mike Lombardo with a pass to the 11 yard stripe. The Vikings ran a play, then Roese tossed another aerial to Lombardo at the three.

From there, Roese ran the ball in for the TD. Neither team could mount a threatening drive for the remainder of the game.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The schedule says the National League baseball season ends Sunday but...

If the San Francisco Giants still are alive Sunday night, they have a make-up game to play at Cincinnati Monday. If they still are alive after that, they will be involved in a best-of-three playoff with Los Angeles.

If rain fouls up the final weekend, they may have to take Monday to wind up the series between the Giants and Pirates at Pittsburgh. Presumably, that would push the Giant-Cincinnati game back to Tuesday.

Logan Elm Succumbs to Dublin, 38-0

Logan Elm's football Braves succumbed to a fleet Dublin High School team, 38-0, Friday in the final home game before starting action in the Scioto Valley Conference.

Next Friday, the Braves host Westfall, 44-0 victims of Unioto last night in an SVC battle.

Logan Elm could not contain Dublin's fullback, Valentino, who broke loose for touchdown runs of 51, 40 and 42 yards. Other touchdowns were scored by Terrell, Correll. The Dublin 11 made good on four two point conversion tries.

The visitors scored all four quarters of the game with single TDs coming in the first, second and fourth periods and two in the third.

The closest Logan Elm ever came to the Dublin goal line was the 15 yard line. Dublin had punted from inside their own end zone and the ball went only to the 21 yard stripe.

HE'S NEXT—Houston heavyweight Cleveland (Big Cat) Williams, keeping in shape at a ranch near Yoakum, Tex., is the next to face Cassius Clay. The title bout is scheduled for November 15. Clay's latest foe was Karl Mildenberger, knocked by Clay in the 12th round of a bout in Frankfurt, Germany.

Once Mighty Yankees End Season in Cellar

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
April showers bring May flowers, but September showers helped bring last place for the New York Yankees.

Not that the Yankees didn't earn the spot all by themselves.

It's just that they got an assist from the rain.

The Chicago White Sox made sure the Yankees would finish in the American League cellar for only the third time in their 64-year history by edging the one-time perennial champs 6-5 in 11 innings Friday night.

The finish actually is the lowest the Yankees ever have had. When they finished in the cellar in 1908 and 1912 there were only eight teams in the league. Now there are 10.

The once mighty Bombers would have had a chance to finish as high as seventh if it hadn't have been for the rain that fell earlier in the week. The rain in question fell in Washington last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and wiped out a three-game sweep to avert a York and the Senators.

Since the rain ended the season for eighth-place Washington and ninth-place Boston ran out of games, the Yankees went into the series at Chicago needing a three-game sweep to avert a 10th-place ending.

Three victories would have boosted them into an eighth-place tie with the Senators and would have dropped the Red Sox into the cellar.

When Roger Maris hit a two-run homer in the top of the ninth inning Friday night, the Yankees thought they had reduced their magic number to two.

But Smokey Burgess singled home a run in the bottom of the ninth and John Romano singled one across in the 11th, and the Yankee magic went poof.

Yonkers Cuts Twin Double

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—The management of Yonkers Raceway, a harness racing track, announced Friday night the twin double form of betting would be dropped effective Monday, Oct. 3.

A statement said the board of directors had voted unanimously to abolish the TD because an "undesirable element" had become involved.

The twin double, in which the bettor tries to couple four consecutive winners, started at Yonkers Aug. 27, 1963. On Oct. 21, 1964, the second highest TD on record, $171,084, came in there.

The highest TD on record, $172,728, was recorded at Roosevelt Raceway in Westbury, N.Y. on Sept. 10, 1964.

Robertson Hits For 34 Points

SEATTLE (AP)—Oscar Robertson scored his highest total of the exhibition season Friday night—34 points—to lead the Cincinnati Royals to a 133-119 National Basketball Association victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Royals bounced out to a 36-26 lead in the first quarter and never were seriously threatened as they won their fifth against one loss in the series with the Lakers.

Jerry West led Los Angeles with 29 points and Elgin Baylor popped in 28.

Baltimore Sets Attendance Mark

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles set a home attendance record Friday night when 12,260 spectators attended their two-night double-header with the Minnesota Twins.

The crowd boosted Baltimore's home attendance for 1966 to 1,190,026.

The previous record of 1,187,849 was set in 1960.

Latins Gain In Canadian Open Golf

VANCOUVER (AP)—Juan Chi Chi Rodriguez and Homero Blancas, a couple of Latins with new leases on their golf games, gave a cha-cha beat to the Canadian Open Friday as they pushed close to the lead after 36 holes of the 72-hole competition.

Rodriguez, a spindly, 123-pound Puerto Rican with a howitzer drive, shot a three-under-par 68, that combined with his 73 on Thursday for 141 and left him one stroke behind the leaders. Blancas, from Houston, is 70-73—143, three strokes back.

Don Massengale of Jacksboro, Tex., and Randy Glover of Florence, S.C., playing with a driver borrowed from Blancas, share the lead with two-under 140s. Both carded 140.

The field of 143 amateurs and professionals was cut to 74 after Friday's 18 holes. Among those who missed the cutoff score of 150 were Ken Venturi, Billy Maxwell, Stan Leonard and Bob Charles.

Rodriguez, George Knudson of Toronto, the low Canadian, and Rod Funseth share second place.

Knudson is shooting to be the first Canadian to win the $100,000 Open since 1954 when Pat Fletcher turned the trick.

Co-favorites Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper were both well off the pace. Nicklaus had a 145. Casper had a 148.

Defending champion Gene Littler had his second bad day and totaled 149.

Rain Delays Pirates Push Against LA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Anybody up there like Harry? Poor Harry Walker. He was up with the sun, out at Forbes Field before the groundskeepers, on the golf course to keep his mind off his troubles, then back at the ballpark to play a little do-or-die with the Giants.

But whatever fates are charged with protecting the fortunes of the Los Angeles Dodgers did his work well Friday. The heavens opened up on Harry and the Pirates, who now must play a doubleheader with the Giants today, though even that is far from certain. There is an 80 per cent chance of rain.

Harry is not amused. "You're always better off playing when you're scheduled," he said. "You don't want a doubleheader if you can avoid them. That's two times you have to gear yourself up. It throws the pressure on you."

It does indeed. The Pirates have to win three games from the Giants and hope like mad the Phillies knock off the Dodgers a couple more times.

Philadelphia beat Los Angeles 5-3 Friday, leaving the Dodgers' magic number at two. Any combination of Dodger victories and Pirate losses totaling two eliminates Pittsburgh. If the Dodgers lose their two remaining games to the Phils and if the Giants sweep three from Pittsburgh and another from Cincinnati on Monday, then the Giants and Dodgers will be in a playoff.

Jets Make All-Stars

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—The Columbus Jets and the pennant-winning Rochester Red Wings each landed three players on the 1966 International Baseball League All-Star team announced Friday.

Pitcher Wilbur Wood, second baseman Jack Damaska and outfielder Don Bosch of the Jets were honored. Rochester's representatives are first baseman Mike Epstein, shortstop Mark Belanger and third baseman Steve Demeter.

Latins Gain In Canadian Open Golf

VANCOUVER (AP) — Juan Chi Rodriguez and Homero Blancas, a couple of Latins with new leases on their golf games, gave a cha-cha beat to the Canadian Open Friday as they pushed close to the lead after 36 holes of the 72-hole competition.

Rodriguez, a spindly, 123-pound Puerto Rican with a howitzer drive, shot a three-under-par 68, that combined with his 73 on Thursday for 141 and left him one stroke behind the leaders. Blancas, from Houston, is 70-73-143, three strokes back.

Don Massengale of Jacksboro, Tex., and Randy Glover of Florence, S.C., playing with a driver borrowed from Blancas, share the lead with two-under 140s. Both carded 140.

The field of 143 amateurs and professionals was cut to 74 after Friday's 18 holes. Among those who missed the cutoff score of 150 were Ken Venturi, Billy Maxwell, Stan Leonard and Bob Charles.

Rodriguez, George Knudson of Toronto, the low Canadian, and Rod Fuxseth share second place.

Knudson is shooting to be the first Canadian to win the $100,000 Open since 1954 when Pat Fletcher turned the trick.

Co-favorites Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper were both well off the pace. Nicklaus had a 145. Casper had a 148.

Defending champion Gene Littler had his second bad day and totaled 149.

Rain Delays Pirates Push Against LA

Anybody out there like Harry? Poor Harry Walker. He was up with the sun, out at Forbes Field before the groundskeepers, on the golf course to keep his mind off his troubles, then back at the ballpark to play a little do-or-die with the Giants.

But whatever fates are charged with protecting the fortunes of the Los Angeles Dodgers did his work well Friday. The heavens opened up on Harry and the Pirates, who now must play a doubleheader with the Giants today, though even that is far from certain. There is an 80 per cent chance of rain.

Harry is not amused. "You're always better off playing when you're scheduled," he said. "You don't want a doubleheader if you can avoid them. That's two times you have to gear yourself up. It throws the pressure on you."

It does indeed. The Pirates have to win three games from the Giants and hope like mad the Phillies knock off the Dodgers a couple more times.

Philadelphia beat Los Angeles 5-3 Friday, leaving the Dodgers' magic number at two.

Any combination of Dodger victories and Pirate losses totaling two eliminates Pittsburgh. If the Dodgers lose their two remaining games to the Phils and if the Giants sweep three from Pittsburgh and another from Cincinnati on Monday, then the Giants and Dodgers will be in a playoff.

Yonkers Cuts Twin Double

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — The management of Yonkers Raceway, a harness racing track, announced Friday night the twin double form of betting would be dropped effective Monday, Oct. 3.

A statement said the board of directors had voted unanimously to abolish the TD because an "undesirable element" had become involved.

The twin double, in which the bettor tries to couple four consecutive winners, started at Yonkers Aug. 27, 1963. On Oct. 21, 1964, the second highest TD on record, $171,084, came in there.

The highest TD on record, $172,728, was recorded at Roosevelt Raceway in Westbury, N.Y. on Sept. 10, 1964.

Philadelphians beat Los Angeles 5-3 Friday, leaving the Dodgers' magic number at two.

Any combination of Dodger victories and Pirate losses totaling two eliminates Pittsburgh.

If the Dodgers lose their two remaining games to the Phils and if the Giants sweep three from Pittsburgh and another from Cincinnati on Monday, then the Giants and Dodgers will be in a playoff.

The Royals bounced out to a 36-26 lead in the first quarter and never were seriously threatened as they won their fifth against one loss in the series with the Lakers.

Jerry West led Los Angeles with 29 points and Elgin Baylor popped in 28.

Baltimore Sets Attendance Mark

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles set a home attendance record Friday night when 12,200 spectators attended their twin-night double-header with the Minnesota Twins.

The crowd boosted Baltimore's home attendance for 1966 to 1,190,026.

The previous record of 1,187,849 was set in 1960.

Once Mighty Yankees End Season in Cellar

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
April showers bring May flowers, but September showers helped bring last place for the New York Yankees.

Not that the Yankees didn't earn the spot all by themselves.

It's just that they got an assist from the rain.

The Chicago White Sox made sure the Yankees would finish in the cellar for only the third time in their 64-year history by edging the one-time perennial champs 6-5 in 11 innings Friday night.

The finish actually is the lowest the Yankees ever have had. When they finished in the cellar in 1908 and 1912 there were only eight teams in the league. Now there are 10.

The once mighty Bombers would have had a chance to finish as high as seventh if it hadn't have been for the rain that fell earlier in the week. The rain in question fell in Washington last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and wiped out a three game sweep to avert a York and the Senators.

Since the rain ended the season for eighth-place Washington and ninth-place Boston ran out of games, the Yankees went into the series at Chicago needing a three-game sweep to avert a 10th-place ending.

Three victories would have boosted them into an eighth-place tie with the Senators and would have dropped the Red Sox into the cellar.

When Roger Maris hit a two run homer in the top of the ninth inning Friday night, the NAB AWARD — Representative William H. Harsha (right), Ohio 6th District, this week was presented a "Watchdog of the Treasury Award" by National Associated Businessmen, Inc. Making the presentation here is Elton Kile, president of NAB, who said the award is in honor of Harsha's 90 per cent economy voting record covering the 88th and 89th Congresses. An interdenominational New York Committee of Clergy Concerned for Viet Nam was sponsoring the "silent vigil" this afternoon outside the United Nations.

The committee's cochairmen are Rabbi Dr. Abraham Heschel, noted Jewish scholar; the Rev. Daniel Berrigan, a leader of the Roman Catholic Peace Fellowship; and the Rev. Richard Neuhaus, a New York Lutheran pastor.

In a similar cause, Roman Catholics and Episcopalians planned to join in a "meal of reconciliation" next Tuesday evening at Manhattan's historic St. Mark's (Episcopal) Church-in-the-Bowery, prior to prayer at the United Nations.

After the meal, similar to the Mass of Lord's Supper except that it will be blessed, rather than consecrated, members of both communions will walk by night the 33 blocks to the U.N. headquarters.

There, they will kneel beneath the streetlights in prayer for peace.

Bishop Mueller, of Indianapolis, as head of the National Council of Churches, which includes most major Protestant and Orthodox bodies in the country, said: "It is my hope that all men of faith may be especially diligent in prayer, each in his own way."

250 Truckloads of Dirt, Rocks Dumped in Yard

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — John Dierico has ordered only two truckloads of "good top soil" to fill up a hole in his back yard.

But when he and his wife, Frances, returned from vacation in late August they found tons and tons of dirt, rock, clay and shale — an estimated 250 truckloads — dumped on their property.

For that "slight mistake," the Diericos Friday filed two suits asking $13,500 damages from the University of Cincinnati and a private contractor, Frank Bartello.

The Diericos said they had asked for two truckloads of dirt from Bartello, who was working on an excavation project at the time for the University of Cincinnati.

The suits allege a breach of an oral agreement and accuse the defendants of placing the entire neighborhood in danger because of the possibility the giant dirt and rock pile may collapse.

The Diericos said it would cost $13,500 to remove the pile and for repairs to their own property and their neighbor's.

Pedestrian In 'Critical' Condition

Gilbert Paul Norris Struck by Automobile In Commercial Point

A Commercial Point resident is listed in "critical" condition today in Mercy Hospital from injuries suffered when he was struck by a car in the village at 7:35 p. m. Friday.

Gilbert Paul Norris was taken to Mercy Hospital by the Commercial Point Emergency Squad. He sustained massive head injuries.

Driver of the car was Kathleen Brown, 16, of Orient.

Miss Brown was southbound on the village's main street when the accident occurred. She told the State Highway Patrol she could not avoid striking Norris, who was walking along the road, because of oncoming traffic.

Norris was thrown eight feet by the impact.

Police Probe Percy Leads

KENILWORTH, Ill. (AP) — Police continued their intense checking and probing today in hopes of turning up a lead that might identify the murderer of Valerie Percy.

Chief Robert Daley said officers have checked other suburban police departments and private patrol services to learn whether two burglaries committed in the Kenilworth area prior to the Percy slaying might be similar to the method used by the killer who beat and knifed the 21-year-old blonde in her bed.

Authorities are continuing to question anyone who may have been working in the area Sept. 18, the day the daughter of Republican U. S. Senatorial candidate Charles H. Percy was slain.

Police are still examining the woolen, bloodstained glove found near the Percy home after the slaying. Other investigators are canvassing north suburban hardware stores in search of a chisel or similar tool which left blue smudges on the glass panel the killer cut to enter the home.

Daley said he was in contact with Arizona authorities to determine whether there might be a connection between the Kenilworth killing and the fatal bludgeoning of Laura Bernstein.

He said copies of unidentified finger and palm prints lifted from the Percy home have been sent to Tempe, Ariz., where David Murga, 18, is being held on a charge of murder in the slaying of Miss Bernstein, a coed at Arizona State University.

Hit-Skip Probed By City Police

The Circleville Police Department investigated a hit-skip accident Friday evening at Mingo and Main Sts.

Police said Nancy Morgan, Route 4, was cited for leaving the scene of an accident.

According to the report given police, she turned left into a car driven by Kenneth Martin, 139 Fairview Ave. Both autos were extensively damaged, officers reported.

2 Ohioans Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army men from Cincinnati, Dayton and Canton, Ohio, were listed by the defense Department Friday as fatalities in the Viet Nam conflict.

Sgt. Larry G. Galloway of Cincinnati and Spec. 4 William R. Masters were killed in action and M.Sgt. James G. Hargrove of Dayton died of wounds.

made in the two operations near the B52 raids.

Over North Viet Nam, U.S. bombers kept up their crippling pressure Friday. Pilots flew 113 bombing missions against oil depots, missile sites and transportation facilities in the Hanoi-Haiphong areas and the southern panhandle.

The U.S. command, in a delayed report, announced one American plane was shot down Thursday night during raids over North Viet Nam, the 388th such loss of the war. The plane was a two-place Air Force F4C Phantom. One crew member was rescued and the other reported missing.

In Friday's raids, carrier-based Navy pilots reported a lucrative day in strikes on cargo barges along the coast from Vinh to Thanh Hoa. Of some 60 barges sighted, the Navy fliers claimed destroying or damaging 40. Air Force pilots similarly claimed success against North Vietnamese positions and storage areas in the six-mile wide demilitarized zone separating North and South Viet Nam. They reported triggering 10 secondary explosions and 13 fires in the zone, indicating hits on fuel and ammunition dumps.

Pilots also reported damaging or destroying 16 bridges, six anti-aircraft gun sites, two missile sites and 18 trucks.

Killer Storm

Castro communism in small boats.

Inez had been twice weakened in titanic collisions with the mountains of Hispaniola and again with the towering peaks of Oriente Province — but back over the water she gained new fury rapidly.

Hundreds were injured, thousands homeless, and vast crop acreages laid waste in the storm's raging journey through the Caribbean from the French island of Guadeloupe to Cuba.

It was feared that many bodies lie in Haiti, where Inez hurled the full force of her wind and rain down a heavily populated valley enclosed by tall mountains.

Death and damage tolls climbed continuously as rescue teams reached stricken areas.

Only one death was officially reported in Cuba, where Castro took personal charge of the evacuation of 123,000 persons from low-lying areas of the southeastern coast. Roaring tides had come ashore there.

Cuba is slow to report its storm deaths. After Hurricane Flora killed more than 2,000 residents in 1963, Castro waited several days to disclose it in a speech to his people.

In 12 hours over the mountains of Oriente, the top winds slamming around the center of Inez dropped to 75 miles an hour. But they built back up quickly to 100 over the Caribbean. At one time, Inez packed a 175-mile an hour punch.

Top winds of 138 miles an hour lashed the town of Guanatanamo Friday, destroying a number of homes. Heavy damage also was reported at the nearby U.S. Navy base although none of the base's 9,000 residents was reported seriously injured.

Havana radio said Inez' devastating winds flattened Oriente Province's precious sugar crop but did not necessarily ruin the crop. Earlier, her winds and torrential rains wiped out the cotton crop on the Barahona peninsula of the Dominican Republic.

Civil defense authorities in the Dominican Republic placed the toll at 67 dead and 225 missing, with more than 1,000 homes destroyed. Unofficial sources listed more than 100 dead, 500 injured and some 5,000 left homeless.

In the primitive island of Haiti, a storm-oriented communications shutdown may have hidden the worst tragedy of all. Unofficial sources who flew over the island estimated at least 50 persons were killed and hundreds were injured.

Deputy Leaves 'Fudge Factory'

WASHINGTON (AP) — George W. Ball returned to private life today after half a decade as one of the most influential men in American foreign policy.

President John F. Kennedy named Ball undersecretary of state for political affairs in November 1961 and President Johnson kept him on in the State Department's top job under Secretary Dean Rusk.

Only Sumner Welles, an undersecretary of state in the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration, served longer than Ball in the key post.

Ball, 56, resigned effective last midnight to return to his Washington law practice. Finances were one reason — his government pay was $30,000 a year — and he said he had not intended to stay on indefinitely in what he jokingly termed "the fudge factory" making foreign policy.

The Senate confirmed the nomination of Nicholas Katzenbach, 44, as Ball's successor Friday, with only Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., announcing dissent. Katzenbach has been attorney general.

"I'm not very good at giving advice," Ball remarked as he briefed Katzenbach later in the undersecretary's spacious office overlooking the Lincoln Memorial and the Potomac River.

But two presidents have listened carefully to Ball's advice — even though they didn't always follow it. He was so forceful in presenting arguments that the White House sometimes used him as "devil's advocate" to spell out contrary views during internal debates concerning administration policy.

A tall, white-haired 200-pounder, Ball possessed seemingly inexhaustible energy which found him working literally around the clock during some international crises.

He was the principal diplomatic action man for the U.S. government in such crises as the Cyprus flareup and the Congo rescue airlift.

He was a leading proponent of European unity and he pushed for liberalized international trade.

A Des Moines, Iowa, native, Ball plans a lengthy vacation in Italy before resuming his law practice.

Mothers Organization Now Known as 'Band Boosters'

The Circleville Band Mothers, an organization devoted to promoting functions of the local band, will be operating under a new name.

The proper designation is now the Circleville Band Boosters. The name change was brought about when members of the organization met in the Junior High cafeteria and approved a constitutional amendment to this effect.

Mrs. Donald Valentine, president, presided at the session. The meet was attended by 43 members.

Membership in the new Circleville Band Boosters organization will be open to parents of Junior and Senior High Bands, and all other persons interested in the program.

Kingston Man Hurt in Crash

Larry E. Woods, Kingston, was injured at 9:47 p. m. Friday when he lost control of his car on Route 361 and Wolfe Road.

Woods' auto struck a utility pole. He was treated by Berger Hospital emergency staff members and released.

The accident was investigated by George Linder of the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

The sheriff's staff investigated four other accidents, apparently caused by the rain. No injuries were reported.

Two Are Treated

Two persons were treated Friday at Berger Hospital for injuries. Both were released.

Sandy Shultz, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shultz, Columbus, was treated after she caught her finger in a car door.

Mildred Weaver, 54, of 472 E. Ohio St., fell while crossing the street. She was treated for abrasions and swelling of the right elbow.

Mansfield Suggests Ike Advise LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield suggested today former President Dwight D. Eisenhower spell out to President Johnson his view on what is needed to win the Viet Nam war — how many men and what kind of weapons.

Eisenhower, who led Allied armies to victory in Europe in World War II and was president when a cease-fire was declared in Korea, advocated at a Chicago news conference Friday the application of "as much force as we need to win."

The five-star general avoided a direct yes or no to a question whether he proposed use of nuclear weapons. But he said: "If they gave me the problem, I'd take any action to win."

Mansfield noted a lack of specifics and said in an interview, "If Gen. Eisenhower has any specific ideas as to what he would do if he were in President Johnson's shoes I would suggest he make his views known to President Johnson."

Mansfield, who has opposed escalation of the war, said he was sure Johnson would receive any Eisenhower suggestions "most gratefully and consider them seriously and with great respect."

But the Democratic leader said Eisenhower's statement "needs amplification and answers to such questions as does he think we need 750,000, 1 million, 2 million men to win? What kind of weapons would he use and what does he mean when he said, 'I'd take any action to win?'"

When newsmen in Chicago asked Eisenhower to elaborate on what measures he would take, the general said, "I'm not sure — I'm not on the ground. I'm not familiar with all the political considerations."

Despite the general's disclaimer, Mansfield expressed belief Eisenhower "is very familiar with the situation in Viet Nam because I'm sure the President has kept him informed of much of the developments either personally or through emissaries to him."

Over North Viet Nam, U.S. bombers kept up their crippling pressure Friday. Pilots flew 143 bombing missions against oil depots, missile sites and transportation facilities in the Hanoi-Haiphong areas and the southern panhandle.

The U.S. command, in a delayed report, announced one American plane was shot down Thursday night during raids over North Viet Nam, the 388th such loss of the war. The plane was a two-place Air Force F4C Phantom. One crew member was rescued and the other reported missing.

In Friday's raids, carrier-based Navy pilots reported a lucrative day in strikes on cargo barges along the coast from Vinh to Thanh Hoa. Of some 60 barges sighted, the Navy fliers claimed destroying or damaging 40. Air Force pilots similarly claimed success against North Vietnamese positions and storage areas in the six-mile wide demilitarized zone separating North and South Viet Nam.

They reported triggering 10 secondary explosions and 13 fires in the zone, indicating hits on fuel and ammunition dumps.

Pilots also reported damaging or destroying 16 bridges, six anti-aircraft gun sites, two missile sites and 18 trucks.

Police Probe Percy Leads

KENILWORTH, Ill. (AP) — Police continued their intense checking and probing today in hopes of turning up a lead that might identify the murderer of Valerie Percy.

Chief Robert Daley said officers have checked other suburban police departments and private patrol services to learn whether two burglaries committed in the Kenilworth area prior to the Percy slaying might be similar to the method used by the killer who beat and knifed the 21-year-old blonde in her bed.

Authorities are continuing to question anyone who may have been working in the area Sept. 18, the day the daughter of Republican U. S. Senatorial candidate Charles H. Percy was slain.

Police are still examining the woolen, bloodstained glove found near the Percy home after the slaying. Other investigators are canvassing north suburban hardware stores in search of a chisel or similar tool which left blue smudges on the glass panel the killer cut to enter the home.

Daley said he was in contact with Arizona authorities to determine whether there might be a connection between the Kenilworth killing and the first bludgeoning of Laura Bernstein.

He said copies of unidentified finger and palm prints lifted from the Percy home have been sent to Tempe, Ariz., where David Mumbaugh, 18, is being held on a charge of murder in the slaying of Miss Bernstein, a coed at Arizona State University.

Hit-Skip Probed By City Police

The Circleville Police Department investigated a hit-skip accident Friday evening at Mingo and Main Sts.

Police said Nancy Morgan, Route 4, was cited for leaving the scene of an accident.

According to the report given police, she turned left into a car driven by Kenneth Martin, 139 Fairview Ave. Both autos were extensively damaged, officers reported.

2 Ohioans Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army men from Cincinnati, Dayton and Canton, Ohio, were listed by the defense Department Friday as fatalities in the Viet Nam conflict.

Sgt. Larry G. Galloway of Cincinnati and Spec. 4 William R. Masters were killed in action and M.Sgt. James G. Hargrove of Dayton died of wounds.

Deputy Leaves 'Fudge Factory'

WASHINGTON (AP) — George W. Ball returned to private life today after half a decade as one of the most influential men in American foreign policy.

President John F. Kennedy named Ball undersecretary of state for political affairs in November 1961 and President Johnson kept him on in the State Department's top job under Secretary Dean Rusk.

Only Sumner Welles, an undersecretary of state in the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration, served longer than Ball in the key post.

Ball, 56, resigned effective last midnight to return to his Washington law practice. Finances were one reason — his government pay was $30,000 a year — and he said he had not intended to stay on indefinitely in what he jokingly termed "the fudge factory" making foreign policy.

The Senate confirmed the nomination of Nicholas Katzenbach, 44, as Ball's successor Friday, with only Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., announcing dissent. Katzenbach has been attorney general.

"I'm not very good at giving advice," Ball remarked as he briefed Katzenbach later in the undersecretary's spacious office overlooking the Lincoln Memorial and the Potomac River.

But two presidents have listened carefully to Ball's advice — even though they didn't always follow it. He was so forceful in presenting arguments that the White House sometimes used him as "devil's advocate" to spell out contrary views during internal debates concerning administration policy.

A tall, white-haired 200-pounder, Ball possessed seemingly inexhaustible energy which found him working literally around the clock during some international crises.

He was the principal diplomatic action man for the U.S. government in such crises as the Cyprus flareup and the Congo rescue airlift.

He was a leading proponent of European unity and he pushed for liberalized international trade.

A Des Moines, Iowa, native, Ball plans a lengthy vacation in Italy before resuming his law practice.

Mothers Organization Now Known as 'Band Boosters'

The Circleville Band Mothers, an organization devoted to promoting functions of the local band, will be operating under a new name.

The proper designation is now the Circleville Band Boosters. The name change was brought about when members of the organization met in the Junior High cafeteria and approved a constitutional amendment to this effect.

Mrs. Donald Valentine, president, presided at the session. The meet was attended by 43 members.

Membership in the new Circleville Band Boosters organization will be open to parents of Junior and Senior High Bands, and all other persons interested in the program.

Kingston Man Hurt in Crash

Larry E. Woods, Kingston, was injured at 9:47 p. m. Friday when he lost control of his car on Route 361 and Wolfe Road.

Woods' auto struck a utility pole. He was treated by Berger Hospital emergency staff members and released.

The accident was investigated by George Linder of the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

The sheriff's staff investigated four other accidents, apparently caused by the rain. No injuries were reported.

Two Are Treated

Two persons were treated Friday at Berger Hospital for injuries. Both were released.

Sandy Shultz, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shultz, Columbus, was treated after she caught her finger in a car door.

Mildred Weaver, 54, of 472 E. Ohio St., fell while crossing the street. She was treated for abrasions and swelling of the right elbow.

program they have planned. Kerns said the Junior High Band will march in one of the Pumpkin Show parades and participate in ceremonies at one home football game.

The new band program will extend down to the 5th and 6th grade levels. The Band Boosters will help purchase necessary instruments.

Booster spokesmen said the objective is to make Circleville's band an instrumental program one of the best in the state.
